MMC TODAY

Trench Hill

Overlooking Fredericksburg from Marye's Heights, Trench Hill was built in the late 1920s and was purchased by MWC in 1948. Having served as a dormitory and child development center, Trench Hill now houses the alumni and development offices. Photos on this page show how Trench Hill's interior has been transformed into an area for gracious entertaining. The spacious living and dining areas lend themselves to both meetings and social functions. The house sits across Hanover Street from Brompton, the president's home.

Call it what you will—philanthropy, altruism, voluntarism, humanitarianism—the act of giving is a sustaining force in public higher education. Unlike any other period in recent history, the eighties are providing great financial challenges and opportunities for involvement. For those institutions that fail to stimulate that involvement, the eighties could quickly become a struggle for survival.

Giving of oneself, whether monetarily or in service, is not only good for the institution served, but is increasingly viewed as an important part of maintaining one's emotional well being. A psychiatrist, Dr. Lawrence C. Kolb, stated that what people want most is simply "to be sought." He concluded further that "millions today are hospitalized or under custodial care, for no better reason than because they think nobody wants them, cares about them, or wants to listen to what they have to say." While his example may be somewhat extreme in a discussion of the needs of higher education, it is a fact that people will respond, if sought.

This issue of MWC Today addresses the issue of giving. A large pull-out section in the center of the magazine contains the names of the many individuals, groups and businesses that provided necessary private support of Mary Washington College this year. Without this support, the College could not fully live up to its stated mission, "to offer high quality and vigorous academic programs and to make available to its students broad cultural, social and recreational opportunities."

This kind of support is a black-and-white, public show of enthusiasm for Mary Washington. That enthusiasm is growing larger each year, as evidenced by the greater numbers of people in giving clubs and the unsurpassed dollar amount contributed.

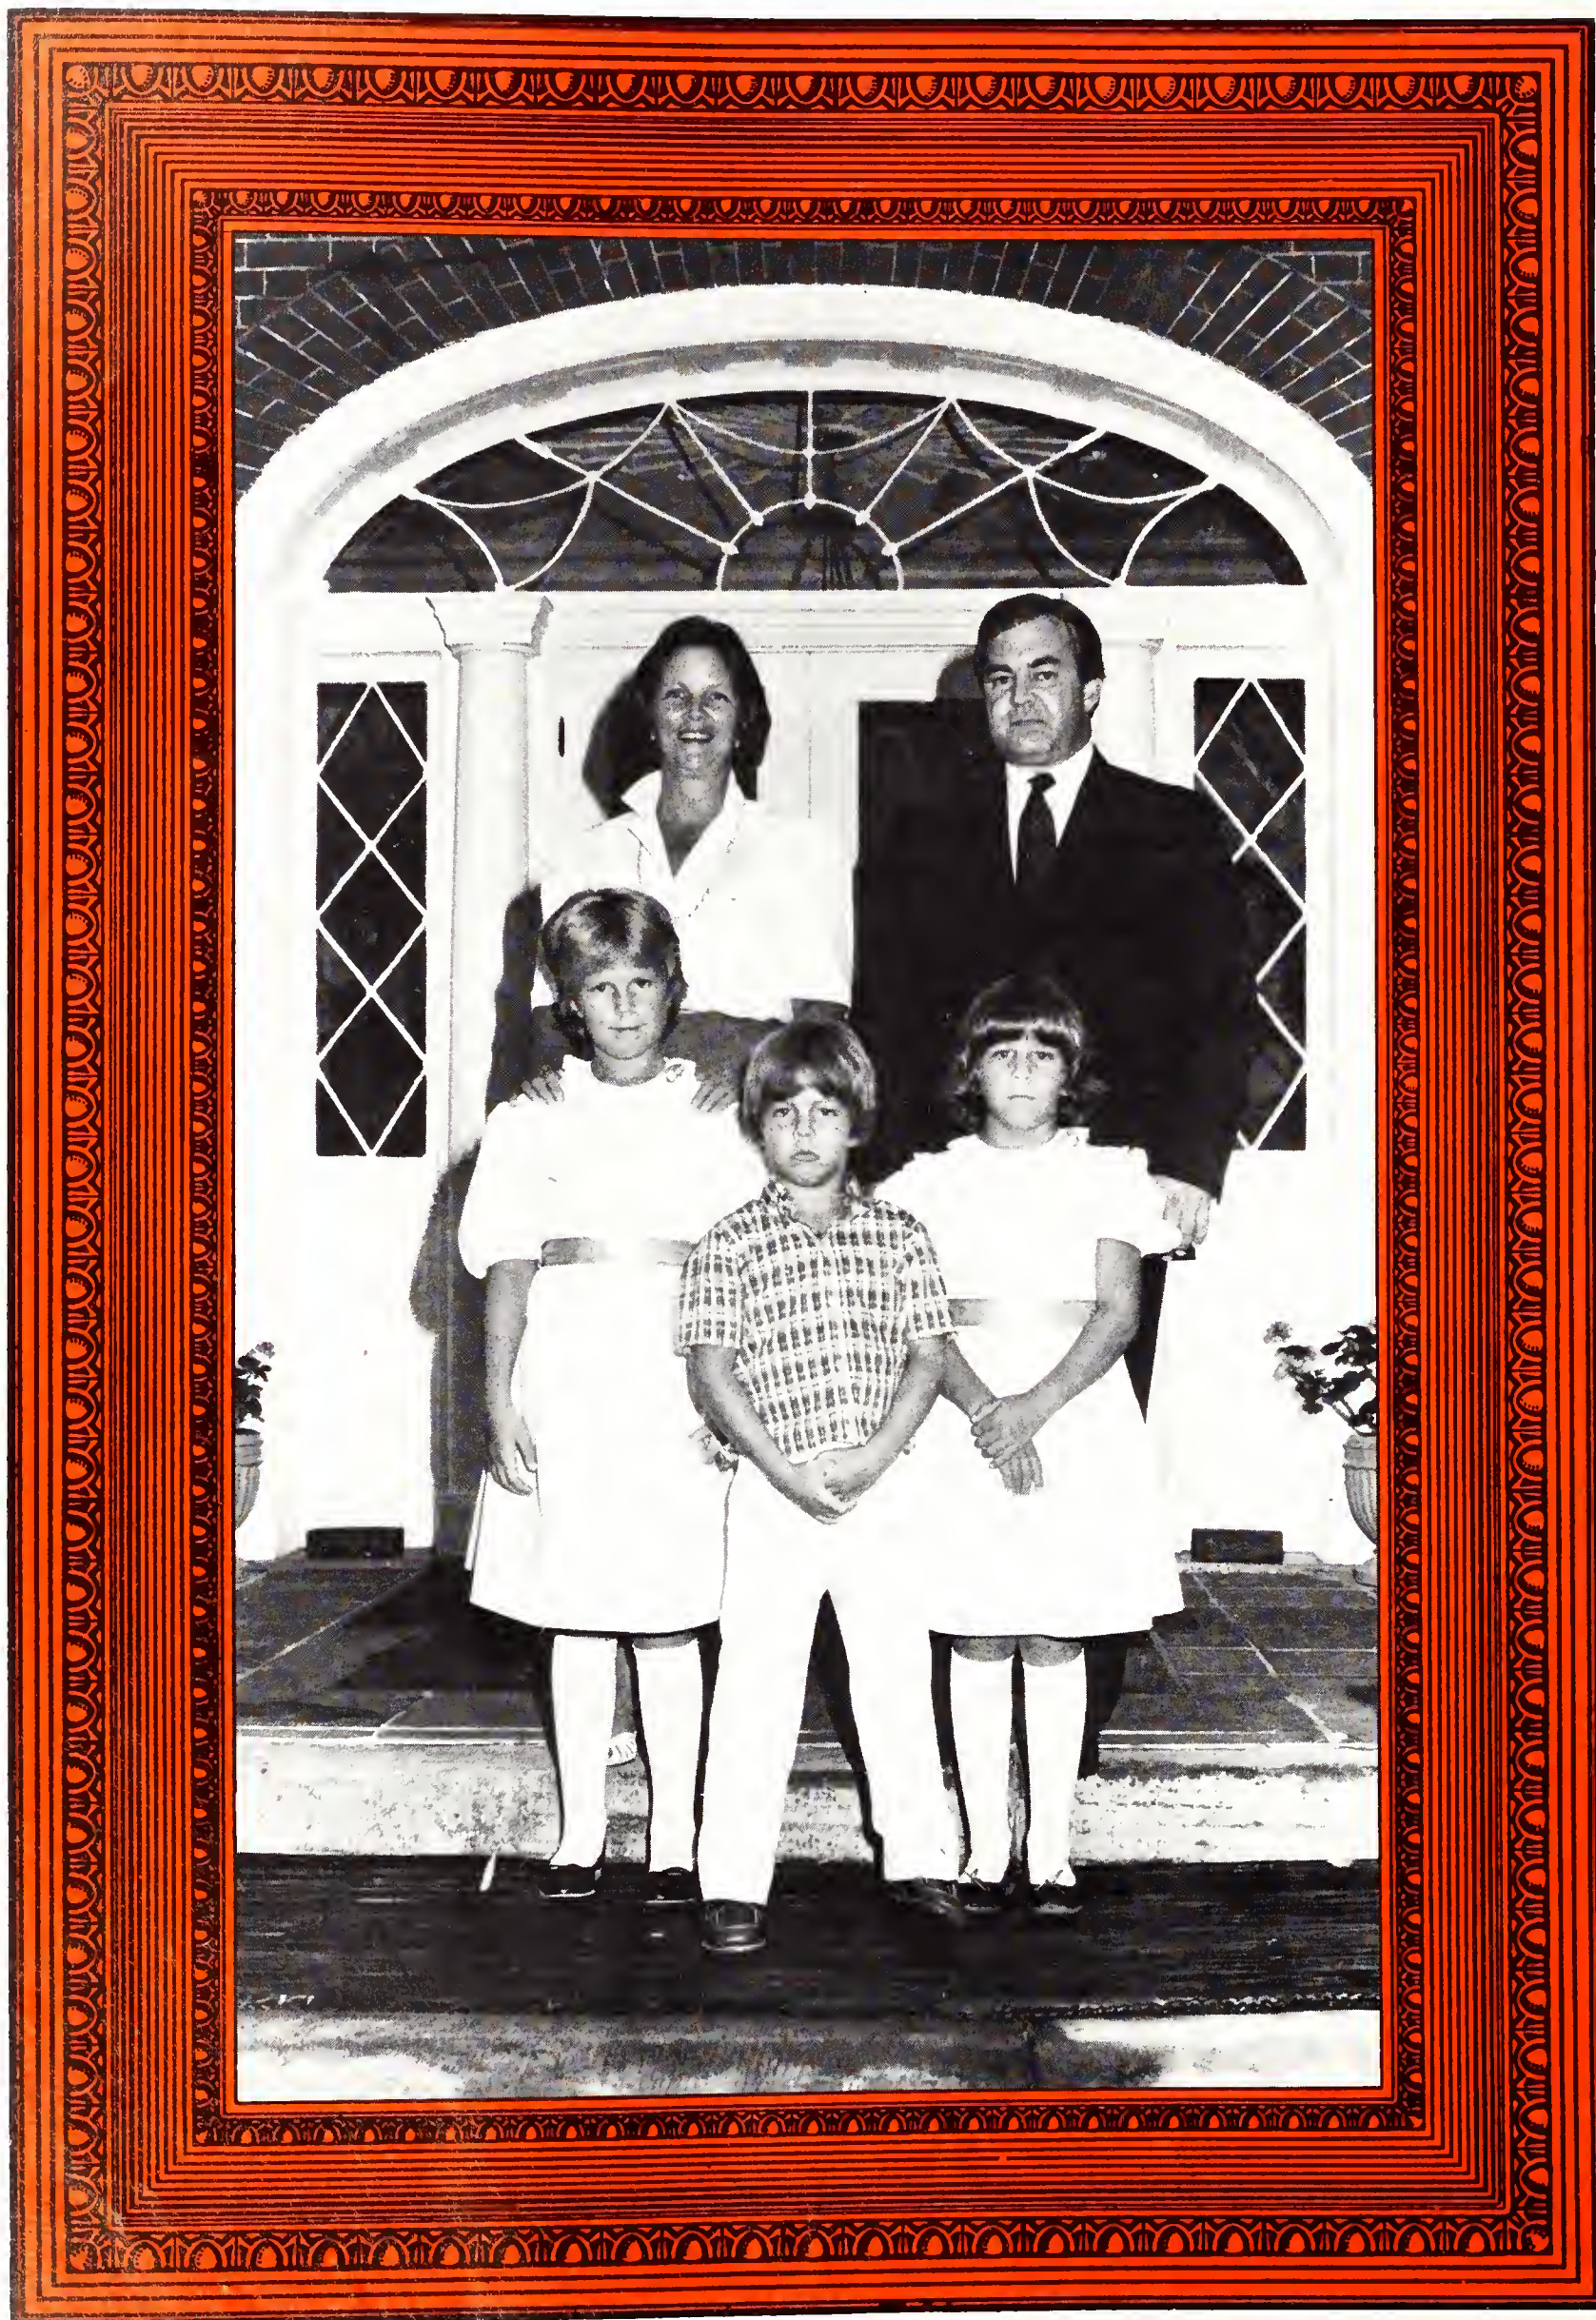

What you do not see in the report of gifts section are the thousands of hours of time given to MWC and its students by people—many without any prior connection to the College—who have decided to become an active, involved part of the College community. Many of them do not think of themselves as volunteers in the traditional sense, and yet they have provided the College with valuable services at no cost. As committee and board members, internship supervisors, counselors, program advisers and fund raisers, they have been spreading the word about Mary Washington College and providing an example to others who are debating whether or not to get involved.

In the immediate future Mary Washington College, through its Board of Visitors, its president and other administrators, will be seeking to build upon that level of commitment. Both alumni and non-alumni will be called upon to lend the College expertise, to advise and to contribute in many other ways. The example has been set and the challenge expressed. In his first day on the job, MWC's new president, William M. Anderson, Jr., stated he would give top priority to building the financial base of the College through increased emphasis on private support.

An interview with President Anderson sets the pace for this issue as he discusses with Carl Lutterbie, associate professor of English, his goals for Mary Washington College.

As MWC moves ahead under the leadership of its sixth president, your involvement and support will be sought. Please respond.

The Right Choice

By Carlton R. Lutterbie, Jr.

He's an administrator who hates the word "administration." He's a computer expert who dislikes rigid structures. He's a college president who hopes to reduce college dependency on the college president.

While these are not exactly paradoxes, they are unusual characteristics and suggest the fresh approaches Dr. William M. Anderson Jr. hopes to bring to his tenure as president of Mary Washington College.

Named MWC's sixth president on May 31, 1983, Anderson, 41, had served as acting president since October 1982, when illness prevented the late president Prince B. Woodard from fulfilling the functions of his office. Prior to becoming acting president, Anderson had served for six years as a vice president of the College.

Anderson's selection by the MWC Board of Visitors came after a special Presidential Search Advisory Committee—composed of members of the Board of Visitors, the administration, the faculty, the alumni, and the student body—had reviewed 140 applications and recommended five top candidates to the board.

In announcing his appointment, Gail F. Neal, rector of the Board of Visitors, praised Anderson's "significant presence, his openness, his frankness, and his ability to communicate." It is these qualities, among others, that Anderson hopes to perpetuate. He seeks to make the College a truly "collegial setting," in which the various constituencies of Mary Washington share the responsibilities of the College, with the freedom to make their views known and the assurance that they will be taken seriously.

Such a setting will require a certain loosening of the administrative hierarchy. "I dislike unnecessary structures," Anderson says. "They are artificial and suppress individuality and the freedom to exercise creativity. We need to reduce the bureaucracy and paper shuffling too often connoted by the word 'administration.'"

As the first step in this effort, Anderson spent much of his first weeks reorganizing the administrative structure so that authority is delegated across the administration and does not rest entirely in his office. "I want to be highly visible and highly active but not indispensable to all decision-making," he says. In a small but symbolic move, one of his first acts as president was to shift the scheduling of Monroe 104 and the Reserve Parlor in Lee Hall—two of the main meeting rooms on campus—to offices other than his.

A more significant move was appointing Dr. A. Ray Merchant as executive vice president and making him responsible for the day-to-day functioning of the College. The offices of admissions and financial aid and the dean of students, together with all the support systems of the College (such as the College Police, the Computer Center, and the Office of Personnel), will now report to Merchant. Merchant, along with the vice presidents for academic affairs, business and finance, and development, will report to Anderson.

Alongside the philosophical value of delegating authority, Anderson notes the practical necessity: "To achieve the quality of which Mary Washington is capable requires additional funding from the state and especially from the private sector—funding to raise faculty salaries and to offer more scholarships to qualified students. To devote my energies to this effort, it is necessary to reorganize the president's office so that the College can function on a day-to-day basis without my presence."

A new position—executive assistant to the president—is part of this reorganization. The executive assistant, whom Anderson describes as "a kind of alter ego," will represent the president at meetings with campus committees, community groups, or state agencies, whenever Anderson's personal presence is not essential. This will free Anderson to tackle the vital problem of fund-raising.

"We need to become more sophisticated in our approach to fund-raising," he says, "putting the emphasis not on fund-raising itself but on what the money can do for Mary Washington. We need to decide what we need and why, to establish a clear relationship between the money and the quality of our education. Then we need to tell this story to alumni and friends."

Anderson rejects the often-heard notion that Mary Washington alumni, being largely female, are unlikely to support the College: "Our alumni are a select, sophisticated group, and they have impressive leaders in the Alumni Association. I am confident that they not only will provide individual gifts but will influence others to invest in the College's future."

The need to know the "whys" behind the fund-raising effort is part of a large self-examination process that Anderson is challenging the College community with this year. Arising in part out of the Self-Study, which Mary Washington conducted during the past two years as part of the reaccreditation procedure for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the need to explore what MWC is and what it wants to become is critical, Anderson believes.

He has asked the vice president for academic affairs, for instance, to explore with the faculty the fundamental concept of the liberal arts—what it means and how it applies to Mary Washington. "It's not that I question the liberal arts philosophy—I support it enthusiastically. But with modern pressures to be everything to all people—certainly an impossible and foolish goal—we need to confirm our mission and our values as a small, liberal arts college."

The future, Anderson believes, will prove the importance of a flexible, broad-based education. "As a nation we are becoming so technologically advanced that we can no longer support our own growth. Our intellectual power isn't keeping pace with our technological power. In the long run—and it's already beginning with the national concern about the quality of education—the country will endorse what Mary Washington stands for in terms of a liberal arts education. The core of the future lies in the values of today, and we need to rediscover and confirm those values now.”

The future growth of the College is another area Anderson wishes examined. The benefits of a small college need to be set against those of a larger college, and size needs to be viewed in light of recruitment and standards of quality. As with the liberal arts issue, Anderson has no axes to grind. While he does have his own ideas about the future of the College, he sees his role not as an imposer of his own beliefs but as a “facilitator and provider, leading the various members of the College community to question themselves and to develop a collective understanding of what MWC is and what it will be in the future. Then, once a consensus on the mission of the College is reached, it will be easier to seek funds to support it.”

“For example,” he explains, “once the liberal arts concept is clarified, we will better know what to ask of the faculty and we can move more firmly toward supporting the faculty in meeting those goals, especially in terms of faculty development. It's incredible that we are in the business of teaching others and yet have no opportunities to retrain or refresh our teachers through research grants and sabbaticals. The business sector realized long ago the importance of employee self-development.”

Anderson's admiration for the faculty at Mary Washington is strong, and he looks forward to enabling the institution to show its appreciation of them. “It's amazing how much the faculty has given to the College, especially considering how little the College has been able to do for them,” he says.

Anderson brings to his new position a combination of skills and experiences that seem ideally suited to the needs of the College at this time. Before coming to Mary Washington as vice president for development and management information systems in 1976, Anderson held positions as research assistant at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, director of planning and research for the West Virginia Board of Regents, and coordinator of academic program and enrollment research for the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia. At MWC he advanced to vice president for administration and planning and to executive vice president.

A native of South Boston, Va., he holds a B.S. degree from Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, an M.P.A. from West Virginia College of Graduate Studies in Charleston, W. Va., and an Ed.D. from VPI.

He has been a lecturer and consultant for a wide range of educational institutions and has written numerous studies of higher education, covering such topics as master planning, telecomputing, finance and enrollment.

“We need to confirm our mission and our values as a small, liberal arts college.”

As MWC's executive vice president, Anderson was responsible for directing the College's planning and management activities, coordinating the College's governmental relations, and directing and supervising many of the College's service functions.

Anderson is also active in the community, serving on the boards of directors of the Fredericksburg United Way and the Fredericksburg Country Club. He will also serve as the 1984 vice president for governmental relations for the Fredericksburg, Stafford, Spotsylvania Chamber of Commerce.

Representing Mary Washington to the Fredericksburg area required some unexpected time during Anderson's first weeks in office, as local residents and church groups held meetings and circulated petitions protesting the 24-hour weekend visitation policy which went into effect this fall on a trial basis in Marshall and Jefferson dormitories. Defending the policy as a demonstration of the Board of Visitors' faith in the integrity of MWC students, Anderson sees in the public outcry a need for continuing dialogue between College and community. Far from being distressed by the visitation controversy, Anderson is reassured to find how much the community cares about Mary Washington: “Clearly the College means as much to the community as the community does to the College.”

Anderson remains confident that the board will consider everyone's views during its deliberations on the continuation of the policy and that the right decision will be reached.

If the visitation policy upset some members of the community, it certainly pleased the student body, which had been struggling for some 10 years to have it approved. More important for Anderson's relationship with the student body, however, is not the fact of 24-hour visitation, but his willingness to sit down with the students and work out an agreement. Daniel Steen, current Student Association president, in a comment to the Fredericksburg Free Lance-Star, praised Anderson's openness and straightforwardness in negotiating with the students: “We may not always agree, but we know why we disagree and we understand each other.”

If the College community is adjusting to the new directions proposed by Anderson, the staff at Brompton is adjusting to some decidedly younger residents of the historic home. Anderson and his wife, Jane, have three children—two daughters, Harper, 10, and Mason, 8, and one son, Bill, 6. “The staff has made us feel very welcome,” Anderson says, “and the two girls have adjusted rapidly to their new home.” Young Bill is still learning his limits, though, Anderson adds, discovering that he can't climb the tennis court fences or try to drive the College tractors over the Brompton lawns. The hordes of rabbits that scamper the grounds are also markedly thinner, Anderson notes, now that the children keep them hopping.

And so has begun the period of adjustment. The Anderson family is settling into new quarters. The Brompton staff is adjusting to a new host family. Anderson is settling into his role as president. And the faculty, staff, students, alumni and Fredericksburg community are adjusting to a new College leadership. Inevitably there will be some conflicts, but Anderson stresses the importance of “constructive conflict” as long as everyone has a chance to be heard and to be taken seriously.

“With room for constructive conflict and individual expression in a collegial setting, I hope to work with the College community to lead Mary Washington to an even higher level of excellence in the liberal arts,” he says. “I want to make Mary Washington an institution to which the faculty, staff, students, and alumni can feel a strong dedication and an institution which shows its appreciation to those groups for their support.”

President's Administration Taking Shape With New Appointments

A. R. Merchant, new executive vice president

William B. Crawley, Jr., new executive assistant to the president

Two long-time and highly respected members of the MWC community, Dr. A. Ray Merchant and Dr. William B. Crawley, Jr., have assumed key positions in the administration of Mary Washington College's sixth president.

President Anderson announced in June that Merchant, formerly vice president for continuing education and director of summer programs, would hold the position of executive vice president. In August, Crawley became executive assistant to the president, a new position created by Anderson. Both positions are essential to the streamlining of the College administration to allow the president more time for the critical area of fund raising.

Merchant is now responsible for the management of the general administrative functions of the College. This includes the offices of the dean of students, admissions and financial aid, college police, administrative computer center, personnel, printing and postal services, and the audio-visual center.

The new executive vice president has been at MWC since 1959, having served as registrar, chairman of the Department of Education director of admissions and vice president, before becoming vice president for continuing education and director of summer programs.

He is a graduate of Emory and Henry College and holds M.Ed. and D.Ed. degrees from the University of Virginia, where he was elected to Phi Delta Kappa, an education honorary.

Although Merchant's title is the same as that held by Anderson before his appointment to the presidency, the job will be broader in scope and will give Merchant the day to day responsibility of running the College's administrative functions.

The new executive assistant's position is one which Anderson sees as essential because of increasing demands upon the president of an institution and his own commitment to devote considerable time to fund raising, an activity that will require him to travel considerably.

Crawley, he said, is an ideal choice for the position because he "possesses the qualities of intellect and personality which the job demands. He also has a wide range of valuable experience in College affairs."

His responsibilities will be "open ended" and directed at expediting the duties of the president's office. He will be assigned a wide range of tasks and will often represent the president at meetings, both on and off campus, where Anderson's presence is not required.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Hampden-Sydney College, Crawley received M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Virginia, where he was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa and the Raven Society in recognition of his leadership and scholarship. He has been at MWC since 1970 and has chaired the Department of History and American Studies since 1975. He also served as local director of the Governor's School for the Gifted for three years and as director of the Summer Transition Program for minority students, offered for the first time this year.

In addition, he is credited with the development of the academic program in historic preservation and has served as director of the Center for Historic Preservation since its inception (a post he will continue to hold on an interim basis).

A specialist in modern American history, with emphasis on the south, his writings include a noted study of Virginia politics entitled Bill Tuck: A Political Life in Harry Byrd's Virginia.

Voluntarism

"Nothing but what you volunteer has the essence of life, the springs of pleasure in it. These are the things you do because you want to do them, the things your spirit has chosen for its satisfaction . . . The more you are stimulated to such action the more clearly does it appear to you that you are a sovereign spirit, put into the world, not to wear harness, but to work eagerly without it."

—Woodrow Wilson, June 13, 1909

By Linda N. Evans

From the rescue squadman on standby at commencement to the local businessman who wants to steer a promising student down the path of corporate finance to the local alumnus who dons a wacky costume to deliver a Halloween balloon bouquet to a startled freshman, people who care about Mary Washington College are abundant.

It has been estimated unofficially that thousands of hours of time are given freely by hundreds of people each year to help maintain the high quality of living and learning at MWC.

Areas of College life touched by these unpaid ambassadors include the academic program, the library, admissions, scholarships, boards and committees and student life, among others.

"There is no end to the amount of time these people are willing to give," reflected Alice Raines, a 1978 MWC graduate who recently took over the presidency of the Fredericksburg Alumni Chapter.

Within her own group of about 130 active alumni, there are very few who are not involved in some project to benefit MWC. Projects such as making "survival kits" for exam week, baking birthday cakes for students, delivering Valentine's roses and Halloween balloons have helped the chapter raise enough money to donate approximately $3,000 per year to the Regional Scholarship Program. This year the chapter gave an additional $500 to the Prince Woodard Endowment Fund.

"Originally I wanted to keep up with the College and meet new people," said Mrs. Raines, who settled in Fredericksburg after her graduation. "I now feel a greater loyalty and closeness to MWC, and feel I can give back a bit of what it gave to me. I'm doing something good for a worthy cause."

Not all of the people who have donated time and expertise to MWC have the obviously strong ties of the alumni. Local bibliomaniac and physician Dr. Gordon W.

Jones developed his love of rare books into several decades of close association with the College library. Beginning in the era of librarian Dr. Carrol H. Quenzel and continuing through the present time, Dr. Jones's interest in the College library has proved mutually beneficial. Appointed first to the rare book committee, Dr. Jones was also a charter member and first chairman of The Associates of Trinkle Library, a support group organized in 1977 by current librarian Ruby Y. Weinbrecht. An organizer of the yearly book fair, Dr. Jones has personally donated a number of rare books to Trinkle Library. He enjoys the contact with "bookish people" and said his involvement through the years has been a pleasant experience.

Dr. Jones's closeness with the College library pinpointed him for broader roles, and he graciously served terms on the MWC Foundation Board of Directors and on the Board of Regents of the James Monroe Law Office-Museum and Memorial Library.

Another important support group at the College is the Friends of the Orchestra organized by music professor and department chairman James E. Baker. Through this group's efforts, money is raised to support the popular College-Community Symphony Orchestra.

Working on behalf of Mary Washington is "one of the best things that ever happened to me," asserted Rita Stone, secretary of the MWC Board of Visitors. Although she was appointed in 1982, which she described as probably "the most time consuming year to come on the board," she has found the experience interesting and extremely important. As a member of the board's executive committee, she was actively involved in the selection of the College's sixth president—to the point of reading all 140 applications.

A 1952 graduate of Mary Washington who has spent her career in teaching, Mrs. Stone said her exposure to board members representing a variety of other professions has been stimulating and broadening to her personally.

As is the case with many of the College's strongest supporters, her initial volunteer involvement with the College came some years after her graduation. When approached by a chapter member in Northern Virginia, she decided to respond and was asked to serve on a Regional Scholarship Selection Committee.

Recipients of Regional Scholarships, which are based entirely on a student's merit, are selected by these committees, made up entirely of MWC alumni.

The committees "review all applications, interview the applicants in March of each year, make the selections and present the awards at the students' high school graduations," described Robert U. MacDonald, MWC's Associate Dean for Financial Aid, who with Vice President for Admissions and Financial Aid H. Conrad Warlick, administers the program for the College.

Although the time spent working with the committee was extensive, Mrs. Stone said, "I support the program totally. It's a good way to attract top quality students to MWC."

In many cases the students themselves have become the volunteers, and they find the experience totally satisfying.

One such student, Donna Snyder, a 1983 graduate of the Bachelor of Liberal Studies Program (for adult students) found that a support group of BLS students made the transition from job or home back to college much easier. As chairperson of the BLS Student Advisory Committee for two years, she looked for ways "to make going back to school a more pleasurable experience." Walking into that first class, she remembered, "was one of the scariest days of my life."

Her concern, and that of other BLS students, led to the formation of a BLS Student Association, a formally recognized campus group. To achieve a feeling of closeness among the adult students, she encouraged picnics and parties for them and spent about 10 hours a week herself counseling and answering questions. "It was worth it," she smiled. The crowning moment occurred for her when a younger student turned to her in class and called her by her first name to ask a question. "It meant a lot to have that stamp of approval," she beamed.

Other students—approximately 60 per year—have become personal ambassadors for MWC in the true sense of the word. They are organized through the Admissions Club and work closely with Associate Dean of Admissions Martin A. Wilder, Jr., to spread the good word about Mary Washington College.

"These students give campus tours to prospective students, they make visits to their former high schools during fall and spring breaks, they telephone students who have been offered admission, they attend college nights and host visitors to campus," explained Wilder.

"They give of their time very freely, and they love to do it, even when a tour of campus takes up to an hour and a half instead of the usual 45 minutes," he said.

Many other students—estimated conservatively at 200 per year—are the recipients of the local churches' "Adopt A Student" program. Approximately 15 area churches representing a variety of denominations participate in the program, in which church families "adopt" a student for up to four years and plan activities to make him or her feel welcome in the community.

"The adoptive families take the students shopping, invite them to dinner, remember their birthdays and holidays, and even host their boyfriends and girlfriends," explained Loreeda Jones, director of the Campus Christian Community. Many close friendships have developed through the years because of the program, she said. Some families even keep in touch with their students after graduation and follow them as they become parents and advance in their careers.

One adoptive "father" is L. Clyde Carter, Jr., professor emeritus of sociology, who this fall hosted his student's real father (a history buff) on a tour of area battlefields. At other times he serves on the College's Family Weekend Committee to plan the annual event in conjunction with the office of the dean of students, and is a member of the advisory council for the Center for Historic Preservation. Commenting that he wants to keep as active in College affairs as he can, he often accepts invitations to lecture to sociology classes and was a participant in last spring's 75th anniversary convocation.

The College's Annual Fund has provided an outlet for many students, especially the Regional Scholars, to help in the fund raising efforts of the College. Each year the students spend many hours soliciting pledges during the annual phonathon and raise thousands of dollars for the College. While on the telephone to alumni, many of whom have not been back to campus in recent years, these students answer questions about MWC and bring the alumni up to date on happenings on campus.

It has been said that by helping another, one helps himself. In the case of Mary Washington College and its growing group of supporters, it is evident that a mutually beneficial relationship has been established.

As more people become involved and more projects are identified, that relationship will grow even stronger.

Successful Conference on "The Law and the Profits"

Recognizing that historic preservation has become good (and big) business in recent years, the Center for Historic Preservation chose as the subject of its Fourth Annual Conference: "The Law and the Profits"—an examination of the legal and economic aspects of the preservation/development process. The event, which was held June 9-11, 1983, attracted a large and enthusiastic audience composed of attorneys, archivists, planners, realtors, financiers, developers, and preservationists from throughout Virginia and the surrounding region.

The conference offered plenary sessions featuring major addresses by such notable preservationists as attorneys David Bonderman of Washington, D.C., and Richard Roddewig of Chicago, and developers Leopold Adler of Savannah and George Underhill of Louisville. Smaller concurrent workshops provided for in-depth consideration of a variety of topics including tax incentives, ordinances, litigation, financing, and marketing. An opening reception at the College's Trench Hill and a gala dinner at The Chimneys in downtown Fredericksburg—both examples of recent renovation projects—gave participants ample opportunity for informal discussion of preservation concerns.

The conference keynote address was delivered by Michael Ainslie, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. While acknowledging that economic benefits can, and do, accrue from historic preservation, Ainslie cautioned against viewing preservation in purely profit-oriented terms—i.e., as a tax loophole for the rich. "The law and the profits are not ends in themselves, but means to another end: the renovation of neighborhoods and the upgrading of life." He pointed out that the movement toward preservation is not solely the result of favorable tax laws, important though they are. "The real change," he said, "is a change in values, away from consumerism in the worst forms. . . . People are beginning to put a value on things of historic importance."

Both of the conference co-chairmen, Center Director William B. Crawley, Jr., and Christopher Duerksen, senior associate at the Conservation Foundation in Washington, D.C., expressed satisfaction at the results of the meeting. Noting that the conference involved something of a new departure on the part of the center, Crawley explained that "in the past the orientation has been more toward the lay audience, whereas this event was designed to appeal mainly to the professional preservationist." Both he and Duerksen felt that the conference succeeded in that attempt. As Duerksen put it, "We achieved just the sort of mix we hoped to attract." The Fredericksburg Free Lance-Star commented favorably on the conference, pointing out in an editorial that, as a result of the annual meeting, the center "has become an important catalyst in the growing movement" for historic preservation.

The success of the conference notwithstanding, Center Director Crawley does not envision a permanent change in the basic orientation of the center away from the layman and toward the professional. "Our goal is to serve a diverse clientele," he said. "We feel that the center's mission is to assist our own MWC students, interested laymen, and the professional community—all three groups—and we will continue to sponsor events and offer programs with each group in mind."

Although plans are indefinite, it is projected that the Fifth Annual Conference in the summer of 1984 will focus on the various aspects of private residential (as opposed to commercial) preservation and restoration. Details will be announced in early 1984.

Current and Future Activities

Fall: "Home Remedies: Practical Cures for Household Ailments." This series of seven Saturday morning workshops focuses on household maintenance, repair, furnishing, and decoration. The emphasis is on practical solutions to a variety of problems frequently encountered by homeowner, and on developing useful (and money-saving!) skills for home improvement. Led by eminent authorities in the preservation field, workshops include lectures, demonstrations, and opportunities for hands-on participation. Each session incorporates time for registrants to raise questions about, and receive advice regarding, their own particular concerns. The series, which runs from September 17 to November 19, includes workshops on stenciling, furniture, plaster, mechanical systems, painting and graining, fireplaces and chimneys, and window treatments.

Winter: Third Annual "Christmas With All the Trimmings." This popular program, scheduled this year for Saturday, December 3, consists of "how-to" workshops on the preparation of authentic historic decorations and seasonal food and drink, as well as a festive reception at Belmont. This year's event—which will mark the conclusion of the College's 75th Anniversary Celebration—will also feature an evening program of traditional Christmas music presented by the College Chorus. The event has been scheduled so that those who attend may participate in the annual Can-delight Tour of Fredericksburg which will be held on the following day.

Spring: "Winterthur in Virginia." This is the tentative title of an innovative collaborative effort between the center and the renowned Wilmington, Delaware, museum which houses the largest (and certainly the finest) collection of American decorative arts anywhere in the world. The program will bring to the campus, over the course of approximately ten weeks, Winterthur curators in such areas as furniture, ceramics, glass, silver, and textiles. These members of the Winterthur staff will each stay at the College for one or two days, during which time they will visit classes to share their expertise with historic preservation students. Each curator's visit will culminate with an evening lecture which will be open to the public free of charge. This cooperative venture represents a unique form of "outreach" program for Winterthur, and is eagerly anticipated as only the beginning of an on-going and enriching relationship between that institution and the College.

Further information on any of the center's upcoming activities may be obtained by writing the MWC Center for Historic Preservation, 915 Monroe Street at Sunken Road, Fredericksburg, Virginia 22401, or by calling the center at (703) 899-4037.

Three Join BOV

A clinical psychologist, an association executive and a former board of visitors member were named to terms on the Mary Washington College Board of Visitors by Gov. Robb in July.

Edith S. Ott of Richmond, John A. Kinniburgh of McLean and Gwendolyn A. Cumming of Hampton will serve four year terms on the board.

Mrs. Ott, who graduated from MWC in 1959, is a licensed clinical psychologist who is a professor of psychology and senior staff psychologist, Center for Psychological Services, at the University of Richmond. She received her M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Virginia Commonwealth University. As a member of the MWC Alumni Association Board of Directors, she served as vice president for chapters and as a member of the executive committee, the regional scholarship selection committee and the distinguished alumnus award committee.

Kinniburgh, a retired colonel, United States Marine Corps, is executive assistant to the vice president and director of financial and administration section services for the American Gas Association. A graduate of Bryant College and Pepperdine University, he is married to Virginia Poole Kinniburgh, a graduate of MWC and former member of the Alumni Association Board of Directors.

Mrs. Cumming, who holds a BA in psychology from Mary Washington, is returning to the board after serving from 1977 to 1981. Active in Hampton area civic activities, she is a former school teacher. As a board member she was chairman of the buildings and grounds committee and the Belmont and James Monroe shrine committee, served as secretary of the board and was a member of the executive committee, the student and alumni affairs committee and the finance committee.

Mrs. Cumming has also served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Mary Washington College Foundation and as a member of the MWC Parents Council.

The new members' appointments were effective July 1.

Faculty Highlights

Robert S. Rycroft, associate professor of economics, attended the International Symposium on Forecasting in Philadelphia, Pa. He joined professionals from 26 countries at the symposium.

William E. Baker is the new associate dean of students at MWC. Also a captain in the Naval Reserve, he worked previously as dean of students at the University of Richmond.

Stephen W. Fuller and William C. Pinschmidt, Jr., who both teach in the Department of Biological Sciences, attended the annual meeting of the Atlantic Estuarine Research Society last spring.

Denis Nissim-Sabat, associate professor of psychology, coauthored an instructor's manual to accompany a textbook on abnormal psychology and presented a paper at the meeting of the Virginia Psychological Association.

Richard J. Krickus, professor of political science, delivered a paper at the International Studies Association meeting in Mexico City last spring. The conference was attended by scholars from around the world.

John C. Manolis, associate professor of modern foreign languages, attended a seminar in Chicago during the summer on teaching business French.

Clavio Ascari, professor of modern foreign languages, and Rosalia Ascari, lecturer in modern foreign languages, taught at the Italian School at Middlebury College. He is director of the school held each summer.

Marsha F. Zaidman, assistant professor of computer science, completed a course offered by PRIME Education, the training division of PRIME Computer, Inc. The course will help her in better utilizing the college's instructional computer system.

Ernest C. Ackerman, chairperson of the Department of Mathematical Sciences and Physics, took a course entitled Interactive Computer Graphics at Wang Institute in Tyngsboro, Mass. He plans to use information from the course to teach a spring class on computer graphics at MWC.

Sammy R. Merrill, associate professor of modern foreign languages, received a grant from the German Foreign Office to participate in a seminar in Wiesneck, Germany. Twenty-six German teachers from throughout the U.S. participated in the course, entitled "School—Training—Profession in the Federal Republic of Germany."

Aniano Pena, associate professor of modern foreign languages, took a group of MWC students on a study trip to Madrid, Spain.

Roy F. Gratz, chairperson of the Department of Chemistry and Geology, received a Summer Faculty Fellowship to work for 10 weeks at NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, Ohio. The fellowship, jointly sponsored by NASA and the American Society for Engineering Education, allowed him to conduct research in the area of synthetic materials suitable for use under high temperature conditions in aerospace applications.

Vera Niebuhr, associate professor of modern foreign languages, participated in a seminar on the problems of working women in the Federal Republic of Germany. The seminar was sponsored by the German Federation of Labor.

John K. George, associate professor of chemistry, completed a 54-hour program of study sponsored by the American Chemical Society on the application of microcomputers in the chemistry curriculum. It was held at Syracuse University June 19-25.

Five Receive Promotions

Five members of the teaching faculty have new titles due to their promotions approved by the Board of Visitors this summer.

Appointed to full professorships were Michael L. Bass in biological sciences and Barbara S. Meyer in art; to associate professorships, Vera Niebuhr in modern foreign languages and Robert S. Rycroft in economics; and to assistant professor, James D. Brodzinski in business administration.

Student Center, Library Top Capital Budget

Proposals totaling $4.85 million for capital outlay projects—including a new student activities center—are awaiting state approval.

Of eight projects for which funding is sought, the student center and two others, site work and planning for the renovation of and addition to E. Lee Trinkle Library and the renovation of the fine arts complex, have been targeted by College officials as top priorities.

The 22,000-square-foot student center would accommodate 2,500 people (virtually the entire student body) for a social or other campus wide event. The majority of the area in the proposed single story building will be open space intended for group gatherings, with the remainder for service and support.

"There is a need for a new student activities center," explained President William M. Anderson, Jr. "At present, only a small fraction of the student body can gather for an inside social event, party or concert. The inclusion of the proposed building into the inventory of college facilities would expand the programming ability while easing the pressure on inadequate existing spaces."

In addition, the project contains much needed additional parking space for approximately 200 cars. Funding for the $1.5 million project would be provided through revenue bonds, President Anderson explained.

The center would be constructed on the hillside directly behind the fine arts complex. Surrounded by open space and rolling hills, the location is sufficiently spacious for the project and does not border residential neighborhoods.

Approximately $900,000 is being requested from the state's general fund to finance site work and planning for the library addition and renovation. Funding for actual construction will be requested for 1986-88.

The library, which houses the largest undergraduate collection in the state, is overcrowded in daily operations and deficient in stack areas, staff offices and work areas, library instructional areas and building service areas. The library is also inaccessible to the handicapped beyond the first floor.

The addition would create a functional, efficient and architecturally attractive library accessible to everyone.

A $1.5 million renovation of duPont, Pollard and Melchers halls would include relocating entrances to classrooms, most of which open directly onto unenclosed walks, making comfortable and energy efficient heating now virtually impossible. Air conditioning would be added to make the rooms usable year round, and 30 music practice rooms would be soundproofed.

Other projects requested by the College included:

- energy conservation in two phases at a cost of $290,000 ($200,000 from the general fund; $90,000 from nongeneral funds)

- removal of barriers to the handicapped at a cost of $500,000 ($400,000 from general fund; $100,000 from nongeneral funds)

- campus security and safety projects at a cost of $75,000 from the general fund

MWC Coaches Practice What They Preach

The coaches in charge of Mary Washington College's sports teams practice the fitness regimen they preach to their athletes. Women's tennis coach Ed Hegmann and his partner won the doubles competition in a Fredericksburg area tennis tournament. Golf coach Mildred Droste is a 10-time club champion at the Fredericksburg Country Club. Soccer coach Roy Gordon ran two weeks of his own youth soccer camp and participated in a week of intense field and classroom training toward his United States Soccer Federation coaching license.

But perhaps the most active of MWC's coaches is the newest addition to the staff, Beth Reichel. The Blue Tide's field hockey and lacrosse coach has run in two 26-mile marathons, a number of road races, and capped her summer with a triathlon. On August 28, the West Long Branch, New Jersey native swam three quarters of a mile, bicycled 18 miles, and ran six miles in the Walter J. Murphy Memorial Triathlon on Staten Island, New York.

"It has been like a second job," Reichel said of her training for the grueling event. "Every day I get up and run or ride or swim. I try to work on two of the three events every day."

Reichel's interest in fitness is probably bad news for her field hockey and lacrosse charges. "I emphasize conditioning on my teams," she says, and "I run with my teams. That way I know just how well they are doing."

Reichel begins her first year at Mary Washington after a two year stint at Eastern Illinois University where she coached that school's Division I field hockey team to a regional berth in 1981. She is a cum laude graduate of Slippery rock (PA) State College and holds a master's degree from Northern Illinois University.

Hegmann teamed with his wife, Kathy, a former number one player on the MWC tennis team, to capture second place in the mixed doubles competition in the First Virginia Bank and Fredericksburg Area Tennis Patrons tourney. Alone, he placed second in the men's 40 and over division. But, playing along side another former top MWC player, Jeff Davis, Hegmann took first place in the men's doubles event.

Volleyball and basketball coach Connie Gallahan and her mixed doubles partner finished second in the consolation round of the same tournament. Teamed with 1983 MWC graduate and volleyball team captain, Karen Stephenson, Gallahan ran into the team of sisters and MWC team players Jaime and Rene Rund in the first round and was eliminated from the doubles competition.

Gordon led 73 youngsters through two week-long sessions of the MWC youth soccer camp and acted as the host to 130 other players during a week's residential soccer camp, the National Capitol Soccer League Soccer Academy. Earlier in the summer, Gordon completed the first week of work toward his USSF "B" level coaching license.

Golfer Droste was aiming for her eleventh Fredericksburg Country Club championship and her first Lake of the Woods Club championship as the summer ended. Recently named the Outstanding Lady Golfer of the Decade of the 70s at FCC, Droste is the defending champ as well.

Terry Bonner is MWC's Sports Information Director

MWC Today

Mary Washington College's publications were distinguished with a Special Merit Award in the 1983 Recognition program of the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE), a national association of university advancement professionals.

The College's total publications program fell into the top 10 of more than 60 entries from around the country.

CASE annually salutes those institutions and advancement professionals who excel in the presentation of programs and attain superior achievement in fund raising and communications.

MWC Today was among the publications included in the college's entry. Editor Linda N. Evans serves as MWC's director of publications.

MWC 'Phones Home'

Mary Washington College students will be telephoning alumni throughout the country during the College's annual phonathon, to be held this year during the first three weeks in November.

This represents a shift in the timing of the phonathon, which has been held in February.

Alumni News

A Drenched Trench Hill Recognized

A typically wet spring weekend in Fredericksburg did not dampen the spirits of most who came to the College's 75th Anniversary Homecoming celebration this year. Held May 20-22, after the school session was over, Homecoming attracted some 400 alumni and their guests for a fun-filled weekend on campus. Mason and Randolph Halls were open for overnight accommodations, and everyone had a great time reminiscing with old friends.

Friday evening's activities included a reception at Trench Hill given by the Mary Washington College Foundation to honor the Golden Club, the 25th and 50th reunion classes (1933 and 1958), and the reunion class with the highest giving record (1948). A coffee house featuring music through the decades provided a less formal atmosphere for good times and gave alumni an opportunity to see the Pool Room, the college's pub, which is located under the Lee Hall terrace. After retreating to the residence halls for the evening, gatherings of classmates continued into the wee hours of the morning, and husbands were not even asked to leave at a given hour!

Saturday dawned a little cloudy but not enough for Vice President for Homecoming, Susan Jacobius Davis '73, and Director of Alumni Affairs, Bobbie Burton '74, to cancel the planned outdoor luncheon on the lawn at Trench Hill. At that 7 a.m. evaluation of the weather, little did they suspect what was in store for noon! Once the food service was given the go ahead, there was no turning back.

A hearty breakfast was offered in Seacobeck's North Room, and the Golden Club met for its annual breakfast and meeting in the Green Room. As the clouds continued to hover over Marye's Heights, tours of the campus and of Fredericksburg were lead by members of the local chapter of the Alumni Association. A few drops of rain greeted those who came to the annual meeting of the Alumni Association held in George Washington Hall.

The annual meeting was the focal point of the Saturday activities. Doris Lindsey Whitfield '53, president of the Alumni Association, Gail Fallon Neal '59, rector of the Board of Visitors, and William M. Anderson, Jr., then acting president, brought greetings to those gathered. The general alumni membership had an opportunity to meet all the members of the Alumni Association Board of Directors. Mrs. Whitfield gave a review of the activities and directions which the association had taken in the past year. Jean Marie Donovan '75 was remembered in a memorial recognition of her humanitarian service and subsequent death as a lay missionary in El Salvador. As always, the awaited moment was the announcement of the Distinguished Alumnus Award recipient for 1983. Kinsey Bass Green '60, executive director of the American Home Economics Society and currently chairman of the board of the American Society of Association Executives, graciously received the award. (Please see related article.) A presentation featuring music and slides from each reunion class year brought lots of laughter, applause and a few teary eyes.

Finally, because somewhere between that 7 a.m. weather call and the end of the program more than an inch of rain fell, it was decided to hold the formal recognition of Trench Hill as the new home of the Alumni Association in Dodd Auditorium rather than on the lawn at Trench Hill. As a demonstration of mutual cooperation and dedication, Doris Whitfield and Gail Neal exchanged expressions of appreciation and recognized the Alumni Association as a vital part of the college community. On behalf of the Fredericksburg Chapter of the Alumni Association, Denise Mattingly Luck '74, presented the number one, 75th Anniversary Commemorative plate, in memory of Dr. Prince B. Woodard to be permanently displayed in the Trench Hill reception room. Bobbie Burton then invited the alumni to accept Trench Hill as their new home and to visit it frequently.

Having stalled a bit in the hope that the rain would stop, the alma mater was sung and everyone departed for a damp luncheon at Trench Hill. The delicious food—shrimp, roast beef and all kinds of salads—was set up under a huge maple tree at Trench Hill's back door, and dripping food service employees, alumni board members and student assistants held umbrellas while more than 350 people were served and proceeded inside for lunch. Trench Hill is spacious, but no one had any idea that all those people could be fed inside. Although they ate sitting on beds on the third floor, in walk in closets and hallways, around typewriters and paper clips in the second floor offices, in every possible corner of the dining room and living room, and even among cardboard boxes in the basement, there were very few complaints. Rain continued until just about time to leave for the class meetings and parties!

Each class was assigned a place for a meeting and a party. Some played the piano and sang, while others catered their own dinners.

A Hawaiian luau dinner in Seacobeck preceded a dance with Levin Houston's Orchestra held in the ballroom. The Fredericksburg Chapter sponsored the dance for the second year, and dozens of favorable comments about it and the whole weekend were heard.

On Sunday morning, after another Seacobeck breakfast, lots of hugs, a few tears, and promises to be back to do it all again in 1988, Homecoming 1983 came to an end. An exhausted Alumni Board and staff waved good-bye to those who had been their charges for the weekend, a little happier because everyone seemed to have enjoyed the weekend.

Editor's Note: Reunion Booklets and pictures from the 1983 Reunion Classes are available for purchase from the Alumni Office.

Chapter News

Fredericksburg Chapter—The Fredericksburg Chapter completed a very successful year and is now embarking on another year of activities.

The chapter annually donates $3,000 to the MWC Foundation to support a local Regional Scholar, and in the past has made donations to the foundation for the College-Community Orchestra. This year the chapter made an additional $500 donation to the Prince B. Woodard Chair in Historic Preservation, established by the College in memory of its fifth president. The chapter also donated in Dr. Woodard's memory the number one pewter plate commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of MWC to be displayed in Trench Hill.

Funds for our donations are raised through the hard work and dedication of chapter members. Fund raising projects include: Fall and Spring Exam Survival Kits, Valentine's Day Roses, All Occasion Cakes (baked by local alumni), and the Homecoming Dance. During 1983-84 we are adding Halloween Balloons to our list of fund-raising activities.

The chapter has also begun the task of re-decorating the third floor of Trench Hill. Bedskirts, comforters, pillow shams, shower and window curtains, rugs and various accessories have been purchased, and plans for additional items to complete the re-decorating are underway.

Not all our functions, however, are related to fund-raising. Our social activities last year included the annual membership luncheon on the lawn of Trench Hill in September, the annual Pops Concert reception for members and guests in December, a tree-trimming and Christmas party, a spring coffee and business meeting, and the ever-popular crab feast in June.

One on-going project is the "Wednesday Workshop." Local speakers (alumni whenever possible) are invited to present programs on various topics on the first Wednesday of each month. Topics last year included coping with stress, school readiness skills for children, women and law, crime-proofing, starting a small business, CPR, needlepoint, cake-decorating, gardening and basic automotive care. The programs are free and open to the public.

From time-to-time throughout the year, chapter members are asked to assist at functions held at MWC, usually for alumni-related activities. Everyone called upon to "work" has thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity to keep in close touch with what is happening at MWC. Homecoming and the 75th Anniversary celebration, whether "working" or "socializing," were particularly rewarding experiences for those who helped.

No mention of our chapter would be complete without a special word of thanks to the members of our "auxiliary," which is comprised of spouses who lend needed support and labor to our endeavors. It is to them that we owe a great measure of our continued success, and we extend our heartfelt thanks.

Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Chapter—The Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Chapter hosted a reception for new and returning students on Sunday afternoon, July 24th. The get-together gave freshman a chance to meet with returning students, and alumni a chance to catch up on the latest events at MWC.

For the first event of the fall, a luncheon was planned for October 1st at the Washington Yacht Club, with newly-appointed MWC President William M. Anderson, Jr. as guest speaker.

All MWC alumni in the metropolitan area are encouraged to become involved. Meetings are the second Thursday of every month. For more information, please contact:

'60 Grad Wins Top Alumni Award

Kinsey Bass Green, chairman of the board of the American Society of Association Executives, was named 1983 Distinguished Alumnus in ceremonies at Homecoming in May.

The Distinguished Alumnus Award is the highest award presented by the MWC Alumni Association and recognizes outstanding contributions in one's profession, civic activities, humanitarian service, creative endeavors and service to Mary Washington College.

Dr. Green was cited for her emphasis on family research, help for the young, the elderly and the handicapped, and her efforts in consumerism.

After her 1960 graduation from MWC, Dr. Green taught home economics in Prince William County before becoming a member of the faculty of the College of Education at the University of Maryland. She served as assistant director of the training program for Peace Corps Volunteers to Morocco and completed the work for her master's degree in general home economics and her Ph.D. in home economics education. She became assistant dean of the College of Education in 1973 and held that position until she left the academic world to become executive director of the American Home Economics Association in 1975. The association, one of the largest in the nation with 35,000 members, led to her becoming an active board member of the American Society of Association Executives (ASAE). Currently, she is the chairman of the board of ASAE, only the second woman in sixty-one years to be so honored.

Dr. Green is also part owner of a successful manufacturing and retail jewelry business. She has served on the MWC Alumni Board of Directors and is an active writer.

Her remarks upon accepting the Distinguished Alumnus Award, which follow, reveal her commitment to higher education and to Mary Washington College.

It is with great pleasure and humility that I accept the Distinguished Alumnus Award for 1983. My baccalaureate education at Mary Washington has stood me in good stead as I have developed in my professional career. A solid liberal arts background, coupled with preparation in a career and a profession which is, by definition, inter-disciplinary, mission-oriented and practical, is an increasingly rare phenomenon in higher education in an area of specialization. That preparation not only offered me entry-level occupational skills but served as a platform for career mobility as well.

I am particularly pleased that my old friend Dean Edward Alvey is here today, for he is representative of the several mentors and sponsors in my life, including my parents, who demanded the best of me and absolutely refused to accept mediocrity. I am grateful for their leadership and for their belief in me and my potential.

Even my work experiences at Mary Washington—waiting tables in the dining hall, keeping inventory records in the food service office, playing piano for dance classes, typing term papers and miscellaneous other tasks prepared me for the management of many simultaneous obligations and made the credits gained through hard-earned tuition dollars even more precious to me.

Thoreau has written that the success of the nation depends not so much upon the ballots dropped into the box, as the people dropped into the street. Each of us, as alumni and supporters of the College must be concerned about the kinds of individuals Mary Washington College is dropping into the streets. Our relationship to the College must be proud but giving; concerned but hopeful. We must learn to think globally—but act locally. We each have the obligation of encouraging bright, creative and risk-taking students to come to Mary Washington; of encouraging productive scholars to spend time on the faculty, contributing their expertise not only in instruction but in the discovery of new knowledge; and, not least of our responsibilities, to contribute our own talents and our dollars to the further development of the institution. In my judgment the financing of higher education is the most serious problem this nation faces today. We have an obligation to give back in measure as we received, for no one of us could have afforded a college education had there not been public support of our individual programs.

Thank you for the honor you have bestowed upon me today and for the tribute which has accompanied that recognition.

MARY WASHINGTON COLLEGE FOUNDATION, INC.

REPORT OF GIFTS
1982-83

Message From the President

Dear Alumni and Friends of Mary Washington College:

My personal thanks and those of the College are extended to the many alumni, students, parents, friends and corporations who supported the 1982-83 Annual Fund. The total received—$215,627.60—established a new record for the Annual Fund, a 38 percent increase over 1981-82.

The accompanying chart shows the growth of the Annual Fund over the past five years. The progress is obvious—an increase of 61 percent. I do not need to tell you again of the importance of this most positive trend, for you already know how much the College needs the additional support. As we set higher academic goals for Mary Washington during a time of economic uncertainty, we are confident of our success because so many alumni, students, parents, friends, and corporations are willing to invest in our future of excellence.

Participation in the Annual Fund by alumni also continued to increase, with 3,359 alumni making gifts during the 1982-83 campaign. Contributions from alumni totaled $164,299, with the average gift amounting to $48.91. This loyal support from both individual alumni and several alumni chapters shows their widespread interest and concern for the College.

Providing adequate funds for student scholarships has become one of the College's greatest needs, and this need is expected to intensify in the near future. This year the College was fortunate to receive a generous gift from Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Hodgson for the establishment of a scholarship fund to be known as the Winnie Hudson Hodgson Scholarship. Mrs. Hodgson is a 1940 graduate of Mary Washington. The College is very grateful for this most generous gift and for Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson's thoughtfulness in helping worthy and needy students obtain an excellent college education.

A special note of thanks is extended to the 27 members of the President's Club. With gifts of 1,000 or more, these individuals and corporations set the pace for the Annual Fund and reflect the growing interest in Mary Washington's promising future.

The decision of the board to honor the College's beloved fifth president, Prince B. Woodard, with the establishment of the College's first endowed chair, to be known as the Prince B. Woodard Chair of Historic Preservation, was received enthusiastically. To date, the College has already received approximately one-third of the $150,000 needed to fund the chair. It is hoped that the additional funds will be raised by December of 1983.

Perhaps the hallmark of interest in Mary Washington's future was expressed with the transmittal of an anonymous gift of $25,000 received this year from a member of the Golden Club. The donor remarked, "Mary Washington is a very special place. I hope this gift will help in some little way to make the College even better tomorrow." I believe her statement captured the spirit of all those who know the College. I am confident as we tell the Mary Washington story to others that they too will want to help.

Thank you for taking pride in Mary Washington and for your generosity.

Classnotes

Nannie O. Foster
P. O. Box 93
Irvington, VA. 22480

The news in the last issue of MWC Today began with the class of 1915 so I am sure that many of you wondered if the class agent of 1914 had "crossed over the river". She is still on this side!

In Feb. of 1982 I broke my left leg and have been in Richmond Memorial Hospital and two nursing homes recovering. Carter's Creek never looked more beautiful than when I finally got back home. I have had so many nice cards and letters.

I saw Helen Phillips while in the hospital and we sure had lots of laughs recalling things that happened to some of our teachers. Helen, one of our most successful teachers, was recently honored by John Marshall High School's class of 1933 at their 50th Reunion. She had been the class sponsor. She got a standing ovation from all 200 members of the class.

Louise Lewis spent the summer in her home on the Rappahannock River, which she adores. She is still full of vim & vigor and is enjoying life.

Ruth Carter Vellines
10525 Glencoe Rd.
Glen Allen, VA. 23060

My daughter is in the hospital after seriously hurting her foot with a lawn mower. I ask that you remember her in your prayers.

Nannie Page Burrus is still in the Culpeper Home and is troubled with impaired vision.

Fannie Hiter Bowie from Bowling Green was in the hospital, but is fine now.

1918

Louise Milbourne Clarke
3020 Kenbury Road
Richmond, VA. 23235

Well you "girls" of our 1918 class have missed it again. Homecoming this year was perfect, even if it did rain for our picnic at the new Alumnae House, "Trench Hill". You must see it, as it is beautiful.

At our fiftieth anniversary, we only had eighteen of our classmates present. Five of us attended our sixtieth reunion—this time there were only three of us at our sixty-fifth reunion.

Lalie Lett Webb, Idalia Blank Minnigrode and I were there and believe me we were treated like "queens for a weekend". We even had our pictures on the front page of the Fredericksburg newspaper.

I am looking forward to attending our seventieth reunion, so please get yourselves together and join us. You are the losers if you don't.

Sue Risheill Perry
227 N. Columbus St.
Alexandria, VA. 22314

I was invited to represent our class for the MWC 75th anniversary, and attended the tea on Sunday, March 13 together with my son, Judge Perry. On Monday the 14th it was quite a thrill to be in the procession of several hundred.

Friday, May 20 brought me back to MWC with my husband, Frank, for Homecoming. Grace Deputy of Waynesboro, Va., joined us, and we had a delightful weekend. Congratulations to those who worked so hard in making it a success.

Next year 1984 will be our class's 60th Anniversary and I hope some of you will join me for Homecoming!

Margaret Engleby is retired and has been traveling. Australia and New Zealand are her loves! She is a member of many clubs, including Roanoke Museum and United Methodist Church where she sang in the choir 30 years. Bridge is one of her many interests besides enjoying her home.

Ruth Prebble Schultz has been retired many years due to her health, but in spite of that is enjoying life and keeps up with her many friends.

Mary E. Clynes was first art supervisor for the city of Hampton after teaching art in the high schools. After graduation from FSNS she received her AB from University of Kentucky and MA from Columbia University in New York. Since retirement, she has traveled. Canary Islands was one of the most interesting.

Frances Walker Ashbury is retiring from Frederick, Maryland Board of Education where she has served 10 years. Four of those years she was president. Her husband has retired as rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, so they are now enjoying their home, roses, traveling and family.

Juliette Ware Parker is well and enjoying life. Her activities are reading, playing bridge, entertaining, taking pictures of her beautiful surroundings, writing, enjoying Saturday afternoon operas, football games, directing choir activities and baby sitting the minister's children. Recently, she visited Lucy Houston Christian and her husband, Frank, who have a lovely apartment at Westminster-Canterbury in Richmond. Indie Sinclair is also there.

Ruby Dillard Decker and husband, William, are enjoying his retirement. At least once a year their family gets together at a beach for a reunion. Their daughter lives in Richmond, so they often get to babysit and enjoy their red-headed grandsons!

The Chiles family reunion was held in Fredericksburg again in August, which we do every other year. Nice to be together and especially where we grew up. All the girls went to MWC—Avee Belle, Dorothy, Mary and Lula Chiles.

Elizabeth Harrison Chinn retired from teaching after 41 years. She was principal of Gari Melchers Elementary school in Falmouth for the last 15 of those years. Now lives on Marye's Heights.

Virginia Williams Morris enjoys living in a retirement home in Cincinnati near her older daughter and family. She is spending the summer at The Adirondack Lake Club with friends and loving the cold nights, beautiful scenery.

Camilla Moody Payne and I were the only two from our class attending Homecoming this year. We roomed together in Mason Dorm. There was a reception at Trench Hill, our new Alumni House, on Friday evening honoring the class of '33 who were celebrating their 50th anniversary. Also we had lunch at Trench Hill on Saturday, and a Luau at Seacobeck that evening. I'm sorry more of you could not have been there.

I was invited to be a participant in the Founder's Day procession on March 14. There were 66 classes represented for this 75th Anniversary.

Kaye Gallagher Spirito represented the Class of '31 in the processional at the celebration of Founder's Day. She was invited by the Vice President of Classes to march and represent the class. Kaye drove from New Jersey and walked faithfully and proudly. Semper fidelis.

Elvere Connor Cox '30 (who was unable to attend Homecoming) had lunch with Kaye Gallagher Spirito at a Chinese restaurant while Kaye was visiting in Manassas. When Elvere and Kaye get together you may be assured they are chatting about MWC and their past years on campus. They are pen pals and "antique crazy."

"Girls," all of you in the Richmond Chapter—this Class Agent '31 wishes to send you hugs and kisses for that sweet invitation to your annual luncheon at the Country Club. Believe me, I would have been their with my "horns on" (Devil's!) except for the fact that I received the mail the day I returned from Manassas. Please don't give up. I am holding my "rain check." Thanks galore. Send me news for MWC Today—please.

Lucille Duffy Conovich '31 came to Homecoming with her sister as a guest. Audrey Steele Smith and Kathryn Gallagher Spirito shared a suite in Mason Hall with them.

It was great fun being with Lucille once again. I sincerely do wish more of our classmates had the school spirit she still has.

Audrey and Kaye drove to Boynton after Homecoming weekend. They had a most refreshing three-day visit with the Rev. and Mrs. John McKenry and Mayor and Mrs. James McKenry, brothers of our dear classmate (and Kaye's roommate), the late Nancy Ruth McKenry Ainsley, who passed away on Good Friday.

Class of '31, attention, please. Again it was a keen disappointment to your class agent to learn that only three of our class came to Homecoming—the Diamond Jubilee year! Kindly answer my cards, or just write me news. We need a better showing in MWC Today.

From Alma—It was worth waiting 50 years for—there was no doubt about that! From the moment of registration in Mason Hall on Friday until after the Sunday breakfast, twenty-two members of the Class of '33 played "Remember When?" with great enthusiasm and joy. For those of us, like this writer who had not visited the campus since graduation, this visit to our beautiful Alma Mater was a real revelation. In fact, it was only when I stood in the quadrangle with Willard facing me, Seacobeck to my left, Monroe to the right and my beloved Virginia Hall behind me that I really felt that I had come home. I caught myself looking up at those second floor windows of Virginia Hall were dear Mrs. Bushnell held forth, and a wave of nostalgia swept over me. And in Seacobeck I half expected to see her at that familiar table. Yes, the years have gone by, but the memories are still vivid and dear.

We were one of the honored groups at the reception at our lovely Trench Hill Alumni House Friday night. Each of us in our class was presented with a beautiful corsage, so we felt really special. This evening was a golden opportunity for us to mingle with other groups, tour the alumni house and enjoy fellowship with Bobbie Burton, director of alumni affairs, and her staff. Acting President William Anderson was on hand and was so pleasant about answering our questions and informing us about present day MWC. This personable young man made quite an impression on us.

Saturday morning we were officially welcomed into the Golden Club at a delightful breakfast in Seacobeck. We had such a good time that we were almost late for the Alumni Asso. meeting. Here we glowed with pride as we heard of the many distinctions and national recognitions that have come to MWC. Laughter filled the auditorium as we saw a slide presentation "Through the Years" featuring pictures from various editions of THE BATTLEFIELD. (Were we ever really like that?)

The luncheon on the lawn at Trench Hill was really a "first" for me, for never before had I held an umbrella over my head and tried to fill a plate from a sumptuous buffet. Yes, indeed, the rains descended, but nothing could dampen the enthusiasm of the hundreds of us there; in fact, it added to the fun. We were able to eat in the building so the wait in line wasn't so bad.

Since Isabelle Page Burden had been fortunate enough to have our class picture scheduled for Trench Hill, we had the whole house for ourselves for our '33 meeting. This was our first chance to see everybody at the same time and we really enjoyed our time together. In some instances we recognized our friends immediately; in others, a quick glance at a name tag was all that was necessary. We talked, laughed and enjoyed lots of pictures that Nancy Jones Hurtle had brought. The wine and cheese party prepared by Isabelle, Nancy Jones, and Lois Cornwell Draper was a fitting climax to the whole afternoon.

Since I am speaking here as an individual as well as co-agent I want to thank Isabelle once again for all her hard work and dedication in getting our class together. Frankly, if it hadn't been for her enthusiasm and interest I would not have gone to Fredericksburg that May weekend. How grateful I am for her caring!

Saturday evening we were transported to Hawaii (really the Green Room in Seacobeck) for an elegant Luau with all the trimmings—leis included. Then there was a dance in the ACL Ballroom to end a happy, busy day.

If you weren't there, you really missed a wonderful experience, and if you were, you are still probably talking about our "Devil Reunion". It was really great! We must get together for our next reunion in '88. Who says we can't make it!!!!!!

Those in attendance were:

Alice Belote, Alma Murchison, Alice Mae Brown, Virginia Sale, Olie Mae Hope, Alice Early, Dot Tucker, Anna Hunter, Lois Cornwell, Ethel Turner, Martha Moore, Mina Poffenbarger, Ava Smith, Josephine Langford, Minnie Lester, Reba Collier, Joan Brickhouse, Nancy Jones, Thelma Andrews, Lucy Will, Julia Lee Boston, and Isabelle Page

I hope you have read "On the Hill", the collection of shared memories and pictures of student life at MWC. Vernie Blankenship Knight represented our class so well with her recollections of life at FSTC. Thank you, Vernie—you write so beautifully.

It was a privilege for me to represent our class at the Founder's Weekend Convocation on March 14th. The processional included several hundred people, among them 66 alumni ranging from 1913-1982. Other members of our class present either the 13th or the 14th were: "Bill" Wheeler McCallum, Ruby Lee Norris, Norris Hattie Riggs Gaskins, Vernie Blankenship Knight and Frances Liebenow Armstrong. As a member of the Anniversary Committee, Frances served as chairperson of historical records. This information has been put in a beautiful book, and will be placed in the archives for future generations. She was in charge of the open house at Trench Hill on Monday. Frances worked with Dr. George Van Sant making out the list of invited guests. She contacted people to give or lend articles for the display in Trinkle Library, did a lot of research on the past presidents of MWC, and helped with articles which went in the Bullet, The Free Lance Star, and MWC Today. Congratulations, Frances, on a job well done, along with all the others who worked so diligently to make it a success.

Louise Jennings Creamer visited the British Isles and England in April. She sent me a card from Scotland, and said her hotel was on the Tweed River, near Abbotsford, Sir Walter Scott's home. Her vacation there far exceeded all her expectations!

Mary Frances Rowe Varner was appointed regional co-chairman in the National Cathedral Association, District of Columbia. Mary Frances has served on the board of the Episcopal Center for Children and is active in her parish church.

Olivia "Bill" Wheeler McCallum and her sister, Clara Wheeler '31, had a vacation of more than two months, beginning May 8th. They went to Greece, France and Italy. Bill's daughter, Ann McCallum Freers '64, was with them for three weeks in Greece. They rented a car in Athens and drove 1,300 miles. Dorothy Diehl Denton '38 and her husband were on a cruise in June where they met "Bill" and Clara. In July, "Bill" and Clara attended the Southeast Regional Conference of Delta Kappa Gamma in Biloxi, Miss.

In April, one of my cousins from near Goteborg, Sweden, made her first trip to the USA with her 14-year-old niece, her friend Gun, and Gun's 16-year-old son. Some of my family met them at Kennedy Airport, and brought them to Washington. They later visited Williamsburg and stayed with me in Hampton.

Audrey Rose Burton and her husband were in Alaska in June. From there she wrote "the country is beautiful rugged, with very little traffic and a lot of lovely people."

I talked with Dorothy Teese Lambiotte and her husband at our 1932 NNHS class picnic on July 17th. They have four sons and seven grandchildren. Dorothy McGuire Bunch keeps in touch with me. Please send me some news about you!

Greetings to all of you! I have been hoping to hear from more of you, but——. Maybe, by next time?

On Founder's Weekend in mid March when MWC celebrated its 75th anniversary, it was my pleasure to march in the convocation line for our Class of 1937. Wish all of you could have been there too. It was quite a sight as we marched from front of Ball to the auditorium of George Washington Hall. Many former faculty members were there too. We enjoyed the address of Gov. Charles Robb and also remarks from others.

Thanks to Lib Johnson Birtwell for most of the news for this issue. Living in Bradenton, Fla., she hears from many of our class and others who are vacationing down there. Among these were Peg Smith Doley and husband, John; Dot Ball Eason and Tom, who spent a few days with her; Bea Childs French, '34, and Don, and Loretta Folger Duffy, '36.

In late June Lib underwent surgery for a stainless steel knee replacement. She is still undergoing therapy and learning to put full weight on the leg. Earlier she visited her sisters in Georgia, Carolyn Holland Coleman and Mary Holland Murphy, both of whom attended MWC prior to 1930.

Adele Giles's husband, Joe was among the 37 people honored for 50 years as a member of the Virginia Bar Asso.

Frances Curtis Smith Kapfer has surgery in early summer and is much improved since removal of gall bladder. She is proud of her new grandson.

Lucy Pierson Welsh and a granddaughter were in England in June visiting the country and searching for family history. Earlier this year she had broken her arm, but it mended well.

Phyllis Currie, of Kent, Conn., took early retirement several years ago due to rheumatoid arthritis. She has had both kneecaps replaced, a hip replacement and partial hand surgery. As Lib says, "Keep hanging on there, Phil!"

During the past year, most of us have been attending 50th high school reunions. One in Fredericksburg was attended by Peg Smith Doley, Luci Pierson Welsh, Frank Nash Young, Jack Smith Lamond, Emily Clay Rowe, and Alice Dew Hallberg.

Maury High School in Norfolk also had its reunion in May, attended by Evelyn Riggs Ellington and Frances Sherman Spencer. We were the only freshmen from Norfolk the year we entered MWC. Frances' husband, Clarence, came with her from Monroe, Missouri. We are proud of the fact that Dr. Grellet Simpson is also a Maury alumni.

Lib's cousin, Ann Craig Rusmisell '51, and husband attended a convention in France in July. Ann heads Foreign Dept. in Prince George Consolidated School in Hopewell.

Please drop by the P.O., get a post card, and send in news for the next issue.

Here is a personal note from Lib: Your multitude of notes, cards, and long distance telephone calls have expressed love, concern, and compassion for me during my knee surgery in late June. I'm grateful and thankful for such caring friends. It's a bit too early to determine just how well my new stainless steel joint will function. The crutches are O.K., but at the present time and onward, I'm hoping to discard them for good. Just Lib

From Henrietta—At this time there is very little news to report since no one has written to me since the last deadline date. Miriam Carpenter Carroll called me. She owns a horse stabled in CA.

Homecoming in 1984 will mark our 45th graduation anniversary. We hope for a very large turnout. Begin looking for your "Devil" insignia. What snapshots do you have that would be fun to look at after all these years! Mini-reunions in your area could be fun if you can't get back to the Hill next year. If you are interested ask the alumni office for names and addresses of other MWC grads in your state or city. Should such reunions take place, perhaps we could talk to each other via phone on homecoming day.

It is always rewarding to hear from any and all of you, so write to me about your summer activities and do it before Feb. 1, 1984 so the agents can make the deadline for the next issue of Today.

From Mary—This is being written early as I leave July 18 for Switzerland, Austria, W. Germany and down the Rhine by ship to the Netherlands. A very busy summer with a visit from the new grandson—heaven—and a very ill brother who died this week, the oldest of we four who have been so blessed for so long.

Madora Forbush Brown has written a grand letter again! and this time sent a picture of herself taken in front of the Temple of Amm in Egypt where she went this spring from Holland. In Egypt she had a five-day cruise on the Nile, saw the Pyramids and Sphinx, etc. All the traveling must agree with her, the snapshot looks just like she did at MWC.

Next spring we will have our 45th reunion. I hope everyone will come so we can see if Madora really looks the same—and all the rest of us. I have been one of your class agents for more than four years and getting news has been like pulling teeth! This minute write to me or Henrietta and let's have a big column in the winter issue.

Thanks to all of you who responded to our request for contributions to the Mary Lou Wilcox Dull Memorial Fund. Our beloved Mary Lou would be proud of our progress.

Maxine Morea Salle writes that as a former class agent, she would like to think someone would volunteer to take Mary Lou's place. Please notify the alumni office if you would be willing to be a class agent.

Reunion was great! We had 33 attending, nine who had never been before. Sorry you missed it (many of you did). Dorabelle, Hilda, Margaret (Lambeth), Mamie (Stahle) and Bertha did a great job of organizing questionnaires, letters, social hour and meeting. Bertha did a super job on our scrapbook. Please send any newspaper articles on your family or MWC girls. The disappointing thing was that so many did not return questionnaires—therefore so little news in the reunion booklet. Dorabelle sang songs of our times accompanied by Levin Houston at the social hour held in Westmoreland parlor. We all roomed on 4th Mason and had a wonderful time visiting and talking.

Ruth Bailey Conroy sent snapshots of Westmoreland, social hour and meeting. Thanks so much and congratulations on your retirement from federal gov't! Her youngest son was ordained a Catholic priest in Seattle in June. Her house in Arlington is for sale, and she is moving to the west coast of Florida. We have quite a few alums in that area.

The big bouquets go to Peg Moran Logan and Ann Dennis Ryan who came from California. Mary Huskey Farr is now in Mississippi awaiting an assignment for home mission work. She married a retired Baptist minister.

There for the first time were—Dot Barrett Martin, Natalie Moore Spears, Irene Noble Frey, Ellen Johnson ("Johnny") Coleman, Audrey Donaldson Davis, Flora Copenhaver Scott, Frances Rector Steagall, Barbara Brokaw McNulty and Ruby Spicer Davis.

Dot lives in Roanoke and works for Social Services; her four children are grown and husband retired. Natalie received recognition from Newport News as teacher of home bound students. Her husband is retired from NASA and they have a son in San Francisco. "Renie" worked with Electric and Gas Co. of N.J. and is now at home. Her husband is an electrical engineer and they have three children and four grands. One daughter married a German and is living there. "Johnny" has retired from teaching high school English. Her husband "collects, carves, paints decoys" and she helps. Audrey has moved to Cazenovia, N.Y. where her husband is an Episcopalian minister. They love it there. Flora is still teaching in high school and remarried in 1980 after the death of her husband. Believe it or not—she runs a 500-acre dairy farm and still lives in Chilhowie. Her daughter is an international trade lawyer in D.C. and her son farms. Frances lives in Alabama where her husband is a lawyer, former legislator and now finance director of the state. They have three children; two attorney sons, a daughter and three grandchildren. Barbara lives in the general area of Renie and Johnny and they get together often. Barbara, please send some information! Ruby lives in Portsmouth where her husband is retired science supervisor for the schools and a writer of folklore on Virginia. She is a librarian.

On my way home I stopped in Richmond to see Jean Boyle Owens who was recuperating from a stroke suffered in March. She was in the hospital, but looked good, was in fine spirits and was making wonderful progress. I also talked to Myran Russell Ten Eyck's son. She was visiting her mother in California and expecting a new grandchild. All of her children live in the Denver area.

Jean Senacle Scott and I had a telephone conversation; she is involved in restoration and history of old homes and buildings in Wilmington, N.C. and lives at Wrightsville Beach. Her five children are scattered—two girls in Hawaii, daughter in Charlotte, N.C., daughter in Raleigh and son in Atlanta, Ga.

Some of you will remember Marion Elaine Cook. I had a note and newspaper clipping from her sister. Marion passed away in April. She was "a retired Army major having served as a dietician in the Army Medical Corps in Japan, Phillipines, Korea and many U.S. posts, retiring in 1968". Others we have lost are Claire Moore Kelley, Harriet Tyler Miller, Shirley Margery Wilson, Louise Harris Spore, Josephine Elizabeth Seig, Martha Powell Davidson and Maude McMurray Roberts.

June Foster Fry and husband Bernard (former librarian at MWC) spent the night in Raleigh and had dinner with me. They have five children in Silver Spring, Md., Montgomery Al., Illinois and home in Bloomington, Ind. Bernard has retired as dean of the School of Library Science at U. of Ind. and will retire completely next year. During the war he worked on the A-Bomb and they had to completely change their identifications and cut off all old friends. June says she wasn't snooty—the gov't said so. They were disappointed not to come back to reunion.

M. Bernise Abrahamson retired as assistant to the director of marketing, Public Service Electric and Gas Co. With her husband she spent five months in N.J. and seven in Fla. this year. She is involved in the D.A.R., Garden Club, Women's Club and is presently chairman of the board of governors at their condominium. Both are avid golfers and keep busy with friends and family.

So much for this time! Please send news!

From Dorabelle—Many of our classmates were vacationing in interesting places this year. Bertha Dickinson Taylor and husband in Italy; Daphne Crump Rudilosso and daughter in Greece; Hilda Holloway Law and husband Dana had a five-week car trip which included Montana, Dana's home state; Natalie Moore Spears and Jack to Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Mamie Stahle Allen and husband, Lee, to Dallas, Texas to visit Mamie's son, Craig.

Virginia Johnson Moeller's daughter, Kristi, has been married since our last publication.

Frances Rice is enjoying her retirement, sorry to miss the reunion—looks great.

Dorabelle Forrest Cox has the class scrapbook—please send items to be included.

Also—send any news to your class agents—so we can hear what is new with you.

Natalie Kerns McWilliams is now an ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church and moved from Ashland, Ohio, to Hilton Head, South Carolina, where she has accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church. She and Jay have two daughters who live in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and a son who lives in Ashland.

Betsy Shamburger Eggleston and Dick have moved from Newport News to Ashland, Virginia, are and enjoying life on a farm. She has retired from teaching and is now a student in crafts classes.

Christine Brauer Krausse and Spott have four grandchildren and another on the way. Grace Bailey Lindner and Carl have two grandchildren. Their son Hut is a Piedmont Airlines pilot, and Max is a Navy pilot stationed at the Pentagon.

So many grandmothers—Fran Watts Barker has four grandsons, and now her daughter, Ann Paul, has presented her with a granddaughter, Betsy. Her son, John, is a captain in the Army stationed at Fort Hood, Texas, where he is a dentist.

Skip Potts Taylor and Mary Doswell Simpson are proud grandparents and Gloria Post Goodsell has a grandchild also. My son Bill has three daughters and my son Randy and wife Mary are expecting in December.

What a marvelous reunion we had at my daughter's wedding last May! Fran Watts Barker, Christine Brauer Krausse, Grace Bailey Lindner, Helen Hawkins Olsen, Mary Dosell Simpson, Skip Potts Taylor and their husbands were there.

Gloria Post Goodsell and Roger are building a retirement home in Tyler, Texas, where their two sons live. They moved to Fort Smith, Arkansas, some years ago.

In March, I attended the anniversary convocation at MWC as representative from our class. The class agents from each class marched in the academic procession from Mary Ball to George Washington Hall between students lined up along the street. Dr. Alvey, Dr. Eileen Dodd and Mrs. Bolling were among the retired faculty present. If only all of you could have been there! The campus is so beautiful and the college is such a vibrant place with a new president and exciting plans for the future.

Everyone plan to come back for our fortieth!

I wish to thank my college mates in classes, '46, '47, and '48 for the kind notes of sympathy concerning my sister Anne's death. I really appreciate your thoughtfulness. I brought out my old Battlefields and refreshed my memory of faces. It made me feel good to look back into those happy times again.

So glad to hear from Peggy Hearn Youngblood. Remember that her mother, Mrs. Hearn, was housemother at Williard. She and Mr. Hearn are well and active. Peggy is still teaching, singing and accompanying at church and the Opera Company of Atlanta. Her son, Mark, a concert artist, is now in Fort Worth, Tex. accompanying at TCU and organist for a Baptist church. Husband Steve, a former minister and executive director of Goodwill Industries, is now into financial counseling business for himself.

Stella Vincent Rose had a nice 32-day bus trip to California in May and June. She talked to Orie Robinson Bonham as she passed Chilhowie.

Shirley Knox Heerman '45, her husband Rolf, and Dot Marvin Potter and husband Doug visited Stella this summer. Chris Brauer Krausse '45 and husband Spott, came for lunch one day and they waved the MWC flag!

Stella will be working at St. Margaret's School, Tappahannock. She will continue to maintain her home in Deltaville for the summer and holidays. (Stella lost her husband a year or two ago.)

This past year I have seen Betty Carrier Church at Peninsula MWC meetings and Jean Purviance Stephenson at Mu Phi Epsilon (music) meetings in the Tidewater area.

As for me, I am looking forward to being a grandmother in November!

Dorothy Lee Lane Atwater has been found! The alumni office "lost" her for awhile. She was married to Garland M. Atwater, Jr., who was the assistant fire chief of Virginia Beach. He is now deceased. She taught school until her retirement this spring. She found the MWC campus after a visit with three old classmates, Rita C. Garliner, Keller O'Brien, and Valencia Sunday, who have been getting together each summer for several years.

The Class of '48 had a special reunion gathering—our 35th—on Saturday, May 21 in Virginia Hall. (It rained!) Between 40 and 50 members met in the parlor and joyfully reminisced of the past and learned a bit about the present and future of MWC as well as catching up somewhat with old friends. We are certainly indebted to Lois Saunier Hornsby and Bette Worsham Hawkins for making the arrangements and for contacting so many classmates. It was announced that our class was recognized the previous evening for having contributed the largest amount of all reunion classes to the Annual Fund! Let's keep up the good work.

There were people from far places such as Texas, Alabama, Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, and West Virginia. Betty Bennett Ferguson gets special mention for making it from Tennessee in spite of walking on crutches because of a leg injury on the tennis court. It was a happy surprise to have Helen Compton Newman back for homecoming. She was at MWC for two years but graduated from the University of North Carolina.

The following pieces of news were gleaned at homecoming or locally and should be of interest to those who were not there. Sue Brown is on the faculty at Clemson; she was expected at this reunion but missed because of a date mix up. Marge Batty Dey is working for the Norfolk Academy in the alumnae office.

Some classmates gathered during the summer at Virginia Beach. This year's contingent was made up of Sarah Armstrong Worman, Betsy Robertson, Bette Worsham Hawkins, Carol Byrd Williamson Mark, Jane Robertson Lacy (Class of '49), and Justine Edwards Borland. Phyllis Cassell Rogers dropped by for a visit. Phyllis lives in Tennessee. Betsy Robertson was just back from a three week trip to West Germany and Austria. Bette Worsham Hawkins traveled in England where she took part in a graduate course in comparative education primarily in York, Liverpool and Bath. Sarah Worman is vice-president and member of the board of J. W. Robinson in Los Angeles.

I hear from Alice Cassriel "Cass" Whitman at Christmas each year. She and her husband Len live in Chicago; they have one son, Stuart Lee. They vacationed in Puerto Vallarta and Arizona, so she could not make it to Virginia this year. Rebecca Fristoe Goode and her husband Harvey, who was practically a member of our class, live in Kilmarnock, have two sons and two granddaughters.

We can have news only if you send some to me. It would be a special joy to hear from each of you. Please do write if only a sentence or two.

We are grateful to Erminia Ubaldi Kauer for news of several classmates. Judy Stone Johnstone and husband Bob live in South Bend, Ind. Of their three daughters, one is married and has twins, one is in med school and the other in vet school.

Liz Barnes Hornsby and husband Beverly are in Temperanceville, enjoying their grandchildren. Pacific Palisades, Calif. is home to Jean Willis Standing whose son and daughter attend college.

Erminia is a technical librarian with duPont in Aiken, S.C. Her son Brian is married and has a mechanical engineering degree from Clemson.

Mildred Greenwood Emmons lives in Atlanta and is a librarian at Georgia Tech. Our lovely local library is a weekly stop and I think of Dr. Itlis everytime I see the ginkgo trees which grow all along the parking area.

Unhappily, Erminia also wrote of Elaine Schuhler Synhorst's lengthy, valiant losing battle with cancer. Elaine died last October and we proffer belated sympathy to Gerald and their four children.

My own sorrowful contribution is that Dorothy Repko Hoffman died suddenly last June after a brief illness. My dear roommate and I had kept in touch all these years, as many of you have, and I cannot express my shock or sorrow. Dot leaves her husband, Ray; their Debbie, a college sophomore; Kurt, just graduated from high school, and hundreds of students whose lives she greatly enhanced.

Sadly I also must report that Suzanne Manning Davis '52 was fatally struck while crossing a street last May. Her home was here in St. Louis and I related the story of her Thai doctor fiance previously. Our heartfelt sympathy to Suzanne's mother.

Barbara Watson Barden, director of dance at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa., and Betty Shaffer Schaadt, teacher of dance at Wheaton College, were overjoyed to discover each other at Duke University last summer. Both were participating in Dance Update Week for Educators at the American Dance Festival. Not only did they take classes and meals together, they enjoyed the Paul Taylor Dance Company performances each evening and turned back the calendar by twirling together in tricky terpsichore as in days of yore for Claudia Read's classes in the old gym.

Betty and Jim have one married son. Barbara and Bob have three sons, the youngest a high school senior, and a daughter who (what else?) is a D/C (dancer/choreographer) in D.C.

Andi Dulaney Devening literally went back to her roots, leaving Cville and her lifestyle there to move back to "Inverness," her family home in Broad Run. Living on the best side of the Potomac (Virginia, of course) Andi commutes an 80-mile round trip to Bailey's Crossroads every work day, but hopes to find her expertise needed in Manassas, a mere 15 miles from her homeplace.

Two of Andi's four sons are married: Hal and Wendy have a 3-year old son and 1-year old daughter and, by the time you read this, Clay and Martha should have made Andi a three-time grandmother. Scott still is in F'burg, while Rob has moved to Ft. Worth, Texas.

It took exactly 34 years from May 30 '49 for Pat Bradshaw Button to let us hear from her, but she finally did it! Living in Port Orange, Florida, Pat has four children and four grands, scattered from Seattle to New Jersey. She is active in both real estate and painting (not houses, canvases). Pat sends news of another '49er who also was an art major. Ui Wells Shipley has two children, Gwen and Brian. Pat and Ui spent two months exhibiting together at Florida art shows.

And that reminds me that the computer printout, compiled for each class annually, shows far too many '49ers with "address unknown". With a Class directory now in progress, to say nothing of our usage, can you help by supplying current addresses for any of these Classmates: (for brevity, I'll only use maiden names)

Ready? Just scan the following: Achenbach; Aldred; Andrews, Lucia; Barr; Beaton; Beechwood; Bennett; Bettcher; Bishop; Blodgett; Blum; Bowser; Bozarth; Bridges, Betty; Brubaker; Campodonico; Cardwell; Carter, Margaret; Cockey; Coker; Conner; Cumming; Cunningham; Cyphers; Downer; Edwards, Anne; Ewerhardt; Faulkner; Field; Finnegan; Fletcher; Floyd; Gange; Hale; Hamilton; Heenan; Hervey; Hough; Huntsberger; Hutchinson; Kitchen; Lamb; Lewis; Littlegreen; Lynch; Malisher; Marshall; McNeil; Moeschler; Newton; Phillips, Betty; Pitman; Pitzer; Powell; Randall; Reed; Rekemeyer; Russell, Ruth; Schumacher; Simpson; Skellet; Smedley; Smith, Florence; Swetnam; Van Deventer; Varley; Walsh; Watt; Wilson, Jo; Wright and Yorke. If a few of these names are not very familiar, they may not have been graduated with us. Any student who attended MWC as a full-time student for at least two semesters is considered an alumnus and should be listed in the files. So if you know the whereabouts of anyone of the above, please drop me a note in order that we may attempt to update the records.

Of course we know that Corinne Conley Stuart is a pretty fixture in Los Angeles. Read in AFTRA Magazine of Connie's being returned to office for another year as recording secretary for the L.A. Local. I'm in my third, and I hope last, year as secretary of the Board of Directors for the St. Louis Hearing and Speech Centers and my hand is getting tired. In a cavern, in a canyon, wherever you are, let's hear from you.

Hooray!! I received some news from several different classmates for this issue. Mary Jane Bassett Currier wrote from Longmeadow, Mass. Her husband Bill has recently taken early retirement from New England Tel. Co. and has accepted a position on the staff of Gov. Dukakis, a long-time friend. He will serve as a liaison between the State House in Boston and western Mass. Mary Jane is active in the Women's Symphony League. Their younger daughter, Betsy, graduated a year ago from Middlebury College and has been recently accepted at UVa to do her graduate work in English. In March Mary Jane, Bill and daughter, Katie, took a leisurely trip through Va. including Fredericksburg and enjoyed seeing the campus again. Katie graduated from Dartmouth three years ago and is living and working in Boston where she is sales rep. for Dartmouth's Conference Center. She also wrote that Georgene Kirkendall McKernan is a first time grandmother—son, Joseph, and wife had a baby girl.

From Humble, Texas, Garland Estes McCarthy, writes that son, Jem (e is for Estes) graduated from Tulane Univ. in New Orleans this May. From Puerto Rico, Carmen Zeppenfeldt Catoni sent lots of news—some happy and some sad. Husband, Luis, was appointed administrative judge in charge of social security by the federal govt. He spent time in the states for training. In May '82 he spent 6 weeks in D.C. and Carmen had a chance to spend a week with him. They saw daughter, Anita, who works with Berlitz in D.C., and rode to MWC for an afternoon. She called Mary Jane Guthrie Simpson and Mary Lou Morgan Glossbrenner '49 and had good chats with both. Luis now has his new appointment in Ponce, P.R. only 45 minutes away, for which they are glad as they thought they may have to sell their home and move. In July, '82 Yelly was married to Paul Colgan. They are living in St. Croix and are now in the midst of buying an apartment with a lovely view of the northern coast. Yelly is working at the local veterinarian hospital and Carmen had a chance to visit for a week in Sept. Also in Sept. '82, Carmen became a grandmother. Son, Tono and wife Marta, had a baby girl, Carmen Angelica. Tono completed his family medicine residency and starts a job with public health in a small hospital near his home. When his wife has overnight hospital duty Carmen takes care of the baby, and loves it! Luis Angel is getting along fine with Grup d'Opera de Barcelona in charge of direction. The sad note was that her father who had been a stroke victim for 13 years died in Jan., and we send our sympathy.

Carol Bailey Miller wrote of a wonderful trip to the West Coast in June where she attended her nephew's ordination into priesthood. She toured Seattle, lunched atop Mt. Rainer (5700 ft. level) and took a boat trip to Victoria, B.C. In July she was to travel to Sun Valley, Idaho to judge a horse show.

I was unable to attend the Founder's Day convocation to celebrate MWC's 75th anniversary, but Virginia Felts Brown from our class, who is a past Alumni Assoc. president, represented us.

I am writing this from my summer home at Cape Cod, enjoying the escape from the heat and humidity. Over the 4th of July weekend we had a visit from Mim Sollows Wieland and Earl who spent a few days in the area. They will be spending the main part of their vacation driving to Nebraska to attend the wedding of Earl's niece. They are proud of son, Tom, who won third prize in the novice class of a large bird carving exhibit in Ocean City, Md. It was the first time he had entered. In May, Mim lost her father who had been in ill health for several years, and she also told me she had heard from Shirley Cole Schleter, that her Dad died in March.

Please write. If you enjoy the column, I need news!

Here it is—the Autumn of '83! And so on with the news!

Here's an up-date on Dorothy Culpepper Wingfield. Dot was in our class until she got the Florence Nightingale urge and became a nurse. She traveled all over the world, eventually married, and raised two girls, one of whom is now married and living in Germany. Now Dot and husband, John, have moved into their new home in Perry, Georgia. Any classmates of Dot who might be cruising along I-75 near Perry, drop by and see her. She says she'll even put the coffee pot on!

Now for a bit of news from Ruth DeMiller Hill, who is a great source of news concerning the Class of '51. Says Ruth:

"Talked with Nancy Stump Motley, '52 while traveling through Roanoke, Virginia. Nancy sounds exactly like she did 32 years ago when we ate at the same table in good ole Seacobeck Hall . . . Speaking of table mates, as a freshman I sat at the table of senior hostess Natalie Klein '48. We called her Tillie then, and I think our table had more fun than any one in the school . . . Last year I renewed our friendship, and she wrote me from Falls Church, Virginia that she took early retirement."

Marge Erickson Hoffman whose youngest daughter is now a senior in high school, does a lot of traveling with her husband, Ben.

Keep in touch, even if it's only a word or two about your comings and goings. You are the newsmakers. I only write about it!

A sad letter just arrived from Claire Sims Braun telling of the death of Jackie Bobbin Blanchet. Jackie died on July 5, 1983 after being ill off and on for many years. She was very active in her church, a member of the Juvenile Conference Board of the Parsippany Police Dept., raised three children and was very happy in her marriage. Claire, Ruth Rivenbrugh Crouch and Jackie had had dinner together in Oct. 1982. We offer our deepest sympathy to her family. For those who would like to write, the address is: Mr. Alexander H. Blanchet, 33 Robinhood Rd., Morris Plains, N.J., 07950.

I mentioned in my Spring column that Lt.

Gen. Charlie Cooper and his wife Carol Edgerton Cooper had moved to Washington, D.C. Typical of the Marine Corps, they turned right around and moved to Hawaii! We'll miss not having Carol close by.

Short of telling you all about my just completed trip up the Neckar River in the Black Forest of Germany with my first husband, I have no more news. Do drop me a line and have a nice winter.

Well . . . we missed you. But 28 of us had a fine time at Homecoming. There's just too much to say in this column, so expect a report in our next letter.

Gayle Winston Roberts wrote when she couldn't join us. Up until 1980 she volunteered in local organizations, and served on the Southern College Board for 10 years. Then life changed, and she became a businesswoman, opening an antique shop in her husband Page's real estate office in Clarksburg. Page's other career has just been capped by his winning the title of World Champion Tobacco Auctioneer. You may have seen him on TV—"That's Incredible". Gayle's and Page's son David graduated from the U. Va. School of Engineering, and is married. Daughter Dana Gayle graduated from Old Dominion University School of Dental Hygiene and was married last August.

We heard, too, from Betty Mason Roper. She and Charlie have been married 30 years. They now live in Columbus, GA., where he is a rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church. Betty plays assistant principal violin in the Symphony Orchestra and loves it. Two of their six children are still at home—David and John. Van works for Southern Railway, and was married in Sept.; Mike has given them two of their grandchildren; Ann is studying cello at Juilliard; Libby is the mother of their other grandbaby. Betty says one of her pleasures is to babysit. She sends her best and would love to hear from old friends. Write to me for her address. Incidentally, I'd be delighted to put you in touch with a long lost classmate, so long as I have the address.

Janet Swan Clements Jacobs was with us at MWC. She has recently married an old friend, Dr. Eugene Robert Jacobs, a radiologist. They now live in Arlington, and she sounds wondrously happy. Janet received her Ed.S. and is working as a school psychologist for Fairfax Co. Son David starts med. school in the fall. Daughter Lee Ann is in London with her husband. Gene's two daughters live nearby, and Janet enjoys grandparenting with Gene's two grandsons.

Thanks to Janet, we have news of three other old friends. Marigene Mulligan Duff is still on the faculty of Emory Univ. Her PhD in speech pathology is from Northwestern. Joan Schlesinger Schneider married Dr. Gerald Robert Seaman last year and they are living in Chicago. Ruth Bryce Boggs Maroney lives in Bryn Mawr, PA. Her husband Phil is an English instructor at a boys' prep school, and Ruth works with preschool programs. They have a combined family of five grown children, and a daughter of their own, attending Shipley College.

Small World Revisited: Marla Price '70 and I have met two more MWC alums at the National Gallery: Ellen Stanley '81 was just hired in Marla's public information office, and Ann Bigley '74 has been for 8 years in the exhibitions and loans office.

Janet Galloway Carter sent us her best wishes, but sadly had to pass us all up this year. Her health is a problem and she needed to stick close to home base. But being back in Kentucky is evidently a joy for Janet, and her letter expresses her delight in the beauty of the state. In passing she mentions that she has started the illustrations to a cookbook for her University Women's Club.

Anne Carmack Pugh has obtained her B.A. degree from Meredith College and she is now working for the school. Husband Bill died recently but she plans to continue at Meredith in Raleigh for the time being.

The response to my recent letter was very gratifying, and I send heartfelt thanks to those who wrote and telephoned. Five letters and one postcard "poured" in, plus two phone calls. I am grateful for all. If only five or six people write each time we can have a continuously news-filled column! So, to those of you who thought about writing . . . please do so quickly (before you forget.)!

One big plus about this job . . . it's lovely to get mail.

The two phone calls were from Anne Levey and Dottie Schenk Hall. Anne lives in Richmond and owns a paperback book store on Forest Hill Ave. In search of more books, Anne made a trip to England this summer. Doesn't that sound wonderful?

Dottie spoke to my youngest son, so I did not get any details on her. However, I gather that she and husband Van are still in Vienna, Va.

Marianna (Smokey) Davis wrote from North, S.C. saying that she's been with the federal government for the past 29 years, and one of her main interests is in the Animal Welfare League. Marianna was at MWC our freshman year and then transferred to the U. of South Carolina, where she graduated in '54. She says she remembers her year at MWC very fondly. Thanks, Marianna, for being the first to write!

Newport News, Va. is where Frances Smith Neal and her husband, Voss, live. Their daughter, Georgeanna, will enter U. Va. this fall, and their son will be a senior at Hampton Roads Academy. Frances says she has been in the tennis skirt business for the past several years.

One thing this job points out is just how spread around the country we are! Sue Sykes Shipman wrote from Illinois.

Sue's family consists of husband, Bob . . . a purchasing agent for a pharmaceutical firm; daughter, Linda (22) . . . a recent graduate of Augustana College in Rock Island, IL. with a speech and pathology major. Linda is heading for graduate school in Michigan. Sue's two sons are Mark (20), now living in N.C., and Eric (17), a high school senior. Sue is working in the office of a local food vending company.

While in Florida this summer Sue ran into Eleanor Zundel Phillips, and they talked of our fast-approaching 30th reunion! How about everyone sending in information and addresses on roommates and suitemates!

From Kingwood, Tx. (near Houston) Peggy Davies McCartney wrote that she is considering attending our 30th reunion, if she can get time off from teaching second grade in Kingwood. Her husband, Jim, is a chemical engineer with Gulf Oil Corp., and their two sons, David and Edward, are a senior and sophomore (respectively) at Texas A and M. Until Peggy's letter I did not know that she was from King George, about 20 miles from Fredericksburg.

Carroll Lee Ferrell Wolfe is also a teacher and, evidently, loves it! To quote her, "Teaching is a great part of my life; I would choose no other profession, even with all the headaches that come with the territory." It sounds like Carroll Lee is a mighty busy lady; aside from teaching and sponsoring the high school newspaper, she is also active in Delta Kappa Gamma, community cultural activities, and served as White Cross chairman for her church. Her daughter graduated from MWC in '81, and Carroll Lee said, "There are no grandchildren. My only daughter has informed me that her Tennessee Walking horse is as close as I'll get."

Thanks for the newsy letter, Carroll Lee! I'm about as far from grandchildren as you are. But Helen Peck Newsome just became a grandmother to baby Alexander!

A very much-appreciated post card from Patricia Ashley Mathena arrived in time to beat the alumni news deadline. Pat and her husband John live in Clinton, Md. Pat writes that John retired after 33 years in Maryland public schools, and their daughter, Ann, is a senior at Salisbury State College, majoring in elementary education.

Jauncey and I have been in Fredericksburg for about 2 1/2 years. After 22 moves in 27 years we are now "settled." Jauncey has retired from the Navy and is working as an engineering consultant in Washington D.C. We have four sons; the oldest, Jauncey IV, is back at Wake Forest U. after four years in the Navy. Our second son, Christopher, is in the publishing business in New York City, and #3, David, just graduated from William and Mary. One more to go! The youngest, Tim, is a high school senior.

Fredericksburg is a charming place to live, and it is also very centrally located. I am fortunate enough to see several of our classmates on a fairly regular basis, but I am going to save news of them until a future column.

If you are interested in locating a classmate, the alumni office has provided me with all the addresses they have.

I'm counting on all of you to help me. Remember, all it takes is a quick post card! Thanks again to all who wrote. And don't forget May of '84, our 30th reunion!

In case you missed the 25th Reunion of the Great Class of 58, as your new class agent, I will fill you in—it was wonderful! About 40 of our classmates returned for the celebration, which included a rainy, but delicious, luncheon at Trench Hill, the new home of the Alumni Association, and a class meeting and party in Mason parlor. Imagine, drinking wine in Mason Parlor! We had a ball! The day ended with dinner and dancing. A very special day with some very special people. It did not take long to renew friendships and to become re-inspired with MWC. It could not have been 25 years ago, the campus was too much the same and so were our classmates. Returning to MWC after 25 years gave an undefinable feeling of belonging.

We are anticipating a grand turnout for the 30th! Elinor Runge Vitek will be our reunion coordinator—planned by Elinor, the weekend will be a success! Judy Martin Britto will be editor of the Reunion Booklet and Cindy West Benny is our class fund agent.

Thanks from all who enjoyed the 25th Reunion to Althea Ash Prins who coordinated the entire event for our class, and to Elaine Downing Hawpe for five years of faithful class agency!

And now I count on your support for our class news. Please send news about yourself and your classmates frequently! We are out of touch with several classmates—for starters, does anyone know of the whereabouts of Izzi Gill Shellingraw??

Hello! What a fast summer! Another sign of old age—when it goes so fast that you see Magnum on Thurs. night and three nights later there he is again!

Postcard from "Pug" Shipman Kaufman. Was on her way to ricefields and water buffalo after walking the Great Wall and eating Peking duck. Two cards from Carmen Culpepper Chappell. The first from Naples and ruins of Pompeii. From there on to London, Brussels and Paris. Next card from Mexico while attending an archeological conference with plans to return to England the next month with Jennifer. Eric will attend Colgate in the fall. Carmen visited with the Hrubys and the Carpenters during Easter.

Jane Tucker Broadbooks had her yearly Christmas dinner with Molly Bradshaw Alderman. John has become quite famous on the lecture circuit for his landscape design speeches. Are we blooming another celebrity in our midst? Jane is into weaving and has gone all the way with a 25" loom.

Nice letter from Marcia Phipps Ireland. She really enjoys chairing the Regional Scholarship Committee in her area. This year Marcia Spence Harrison was also on the committee, so they combined a visiting weekend. Marcia is a psychotherapist.

Julie Coates Littlefield edited Mo's spring issue so well, she's taking on the summer one, too. Bess finished her 1st year at Wm & Mary and stayed for summer school to study Italian. Scott completed his freshman year in h.s. This summer he is working as a docent for the Lexington Visitor Center. She will be chairing the Regional Scholarship Committee in her area this year. She has the opportunity to see Margie Krisman Kostel who also serves. Margie is doing fine and has two children in college and one in h.s. Julie planned a trip to Maine for the summer.

Irene Piscopo Rodgers in her many travels managed a good visit with Ann Watkins Steves. Bruce and David are married. Linda is a sr. in college and according to Irene, Bill is a doll; Bob had a nice promotion at Texas Instruments. They still have their plane and do a lot of flying. Irene also heard from Nancy Montrastelle Curnutt. Nancy went to visit her husband's family in Okla. and liked it so much they moved there and bought a gravel business. Nancy is also selling real estate. Her daughter, Ginny, is traveling with a band, and son, Tom, is doing fine. Irene took her annual trip to Aspen and was planning the Bahamas in the spring. Irene also serves on the Regional Scholarship Committee and praises how much she enjoys it. See all of you before you know it.

From Clara Sue—Last March I was very pleasantly surprised when I received a note from Dorothy Held Gawley, agent for class of '50, accompanied by two newspaper articles with great pictures of Mary Norman Davis Dickerson who now lives in Montclair, N. J. Normie teaches math and is married to the Rev. Park Dickerson. They have a daughter, Lynn, 16, and a son, Ben, 13. Although Normie has taught school for a number of years, including two in Japan, one of the articles concentrated on her cooking skills and her favorite recipes, which sound delicious.

Earlier this year Lois Donnelly Clark and I ran into each other in McLean. She was living in Great Falls at the time, but has since moved to McLean. She has two teenage boys and sells real estate.

I hope all of you will have an experience similar to the one I had last April—the four of us from our sophomore suite had a reunion in the lobby of the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Baltimore, Md. The others in the suite included Elizabeth Wright Cox of Pheonix, Md., Constance Booth Logothetis of Wilmington, Del., and Eleanor Jane Riles Wamsley of Portland, Or. Plans for the reunion began when the word got around that Janie was planning to be in Baltimore to present a paper in French to teachers attending the North East Conference on Teaching of Foreign Languages. Also included in the reunion were Janie's parents from Chillicothe, Mo., Connie's mother from Gibson Island, Md., my husband, Clarence, and our sons Dennis, 14, and Andrew, 9. I can't tell you how much fun we had. Just a short time before Janie's trip to Baltimore, she had to undergo laser surgery for cataracts on both eyes. She had a rough time for awhile, but I believe she is doing nicely now.

My family continues to play golf. Park, 16, played on the Langley High School golf team which made a clean sweep of all their competition in Northern Virginia and placed second in the state championship in Salem. Dennis will be playing piano with the Langley Jazz Lab this year. He was honored by being the only freshman chosen for this outstanding group. Connie and Janie can be proud of their godsons.

From Lynn—Hi Group! WE REALLY NEED YOUR HELP. We're missing about 60 classmates who started with us in '57 and almost 50 more who graduated with us. We'll provide a list in this and three subsequent issues of MWC Today. If you have any information on these classmates, please contact Clara Sue or me. These "missing" gals graduated with us: Katherine Lee Davis, Meta Margaret Degenhardt, Susan Dorn Dover, Anne Eckert, Agnes Fleagle, Elizabeth Ann Garland, Cheryl Geel, Ellen Gualtieri Hall, Marcia Hraber, Mary Sue Jeter, Becky Johnson, Sue Johnson, Jo Knotts Jones, Sandra Kollender Liberty, Mary Katherine Leblanc Ingle, Joyce Lefevre Morgan, Barbara Jean Little Hardy, Suzanne Marriott Zoeller, Carol Ann Mercer, Diane Mitchell Goodwin, Sylvia Sue Mulling Maldonado, Sandra Noyes Seaman, Elaine Pastorius Brockstedt, Betty Prince, Marilu Sanchez Weichsel, and Sue Shafer.

Becky Perdue '61, director of the laboratory and nuclear medicine departments at Stuart Circle Hospital, was elected president of the Virginia Society for Medical Technology. Additionally, she recently was elected the national vice chairperson of the Laboratory Administration Section of the Scientific Assembly for the American Society for Medical Technology.

As the new president of the Virginia Society, Mrs. Perdue will be overseeing the various activities of the 500-member statewide professional organization and serving on various committees nationally and regionally, including the Region II Council. Region II comprises seven states from Virginia to New Jersey.

After learning that Sara Prosterman Brown lived near Dixie Babb Rucker in Marietta, GA, I couldn't resist trying to contact Dixie, another Norfolkian and a classmate we had lost contact with. Ma Bell did it again! Dixie, Bill and family are thriving. Bill has a well-established dental practice, and Dixie is working in the library of a local middle school. She started working at the library three years ago, likes her job, and has the summers off. In addition to Jeff, who's in his second year at the Naval Academy, there's Ken, a high school junior and Richie, who's in the 8th grade. Both boys run track and play football. Ken's a super quarterback. Dixie said she'd lost contact with her roomie, Peggy Jenkins Prevost. Have you all connected? Keep in touch, Dixie. If I don't see you before, we'll see you in

'86 when you take in Jeff's graduation and our 25th!

Betty Pace Rose and I keep in touch at UK basketball games. She and Jim are preparing to do the college circuit with Jim, Jr.

Caught up with Patsy Hilgartner Bruckner, too. She and John are in Midlothian. Patsy's with Blue Cross in Richmond—first line management position. John's with a Richmond-based firm that makes machines for Philip Morris. Son, John (15), is very musically talented. He plays the violin, cello and trumpet, and is in the all-county orchestra. Son, Stephen (13), plays clarinet, and is big on computers. Patsy and I reminisced about MWC, especially those trips around the hockey field. We agreed we'd never make it now—we're both fighting the battle of the bulge!

Saturday before the Derby, Ebie Breeden McKnight '58 and I found ourselves on millionaire's row at Churchill Downs. That was THE life! Then, it was chasing hot air balloons over the beautiful Bluegrass terrain. Took in cross country racing at the KY horse park in Lexington. It's an awesome sport of skill and courage. Summer meant gardening (with a new method of reduced space and higher yield), and a three-week vacation in Norfolk and Cape Cod. And, after two years in the employment service field, I became Grants and Contract Administrator for the KY Department for Libraries and Archives. It's good to resume the type of work I really enjoy, and the added benefit is, I can work on family history!

My apologies for no news last time around. Somehow I missed hearing about the deadline date and it came and went. I'm planning on getting a questionnaire out shortly to drum up some business, so be on the lookout for it.

Participating in the convocation processional last March for the 75th anniversary celebration was quite an event. Every class since 1912 was represented—still all by women—and it was impressive. Among the highlights you might have missed in news reporting of the occasion were Gov. Chuck Robb's admitting to having visited MWC both "officially and unofficially" on several occasions over many years, including when he was stationed at Quantico. That produced more than a few snickers from the audience. On the serious side, he reaffirmed the liberal arts tradition of Mary Washington and noted its continued significance to a high tech world.

Since then I've tried to track down some of our classmates. We seem to be an assorted lot, busy with changing lives. We're married, not married, remarried—working outside the home, inside the home, getting children into high school and having new babies.

I had an unexpected pleasure catching up with Patsy Jones Separa in July. She and her husband Tom were flying into Washington from Long Beach, Calif., en route to Richmond for her 20th high school reunion and a family visit. She and I had a brief reunion of our own, meeting each other's husbands and trying to catch up on 16 years in two hours over coffee and pastries. She's busy as ever, especially now as vice-president of Pacific Heritage Bank. Her children are 15, 12, and 9 and keep her, like many of us, involved with their own sports activities.

A call to Eleanor (Pixie) Grainger Workman gave me the news that Eleanor Frith Peters, her husband and two children were back in the States in June for a family visit after two years in Moscow. They're now stationed in Berlin.

Mary Lippy Booker is still in Richmond and working as an Amway distributor. Jeanie Ross recently moved to Dallas, where she still works for IBM. Pixie also reminded me that Charlotte Gregg Morgan is head of instruction at the New Community School in Richmond, where Pix still teaches.

Pixie saw Roberta Hatcher Graves at a wedding in Nags Head and learned that Roberta, Fonda Davis Eyler, Mary Haga Doermann, and Judy Douglas Everett were planning a mini-reunion there in June. Apparently it was terrific, with all three families living in neighboring beach houses for 10 days. The children in attendance ranged in age from 15 to Judy's new 4-month-old daughter. Roberta is still teaching dance once a week, Judy's active in La Leche League in Houston, Mary's enjoying the challenge of being home fulltime with her children in Madonna, Ohio, and Fonda is still at the University of Florida hospital working with medical students and parents dealing with neonatal stress.

I discovered some exciting news when I caught up with Judy Cox Hodges in Newport News in July. Her daughter Courtney is the same age (11) as my Alison, but Judy had twin daughters on Labor Day, 1982! They're gorgeous and wonderful, of course, and—judging from my own experience with twin stepsons who are now 5½—will be great fun as they grow. It was really good talking to Judy after all these years and to know things are going well.

Hope to have lots more next time. Please write and help us keep each other posted. It's so hard to maintain friendships these days when we all have so many demands on our time. I hope everyone is healthy, although I know that's not possible. After recovering from cancer 10 years ago, I'm very sensitive to cheery, casual chit-chat about health. It's so valuable—and so are our friends. Keep in touch and have good moments even on bad days.

Since I traveled all the way from Denver to attend our 15th reunion, I was hoping to see lots of familiar faces on campus. Although there were only 17 class members there, we all had a wonderful weekend—in spite of the downpour! I managed to catch up on news from almost everyone, and I'll start with my senior roomies.

Jean Eley Thompson is guidance director at Western Branch Junior High School, and is currently president of the Hampton Roads Counselors Association. Husband Jim is an engineering assistant for GE, and enjoys ham radio and restoring his Corvair. Their son, Jamie, is 3. Cindy Long Geschlecht is attending Rutgers Law School while on sabbatical from her political science teaching job at Montclair State College. Her husband, Michael, is an antique dealer, and Cindy says she enjoys cooking, photography, and attending auctions.

Maveret Staples Daigle is married to David, and they have two children—Eleanor, 9, and DE, 5. Maveret is active in local politics in Melrose, N.Y., and enjoys gardening. Patti Whitley Saumweber lives in Potomac Park, MD., with her husband, David, who is deputy archivist at the National Academy of Sciences. They have two sons, Whit, 9, and Tom, 4. Patti works as an evoked response technologist at Children's Hospital, doing clinical testing and research.

I was certainly surprised to travel all the way to Fredericksburg to run into another Coloradan! Sharon Maddrea Nelson lives in Loveland, where she is a product engineer for Teledyne Water Pik. Gary works for the marketing department of a business college. Along with Ryan, 5, and Cory, 3, they are into skiing, mountain climbing, and big game hunting. Kathleen Nagy Schabacker works for the U.S. Geological Survey in Reston, where she is in telecommunications. Dennis is a computer systems analyst for the IRS. They enjoy music, woodworking, and hiking with their dogs.

Roberta Head has just completed her 15th year of teaching math in Fairfax County schools. She just bought her first home in Manassas, and spends her summers traveling in the Rockies (good choice!) Mel Wittig Neale lives on a sailboat with her husband, Tom, a lawyer in Newport News, and daughters Melanie, 3½, and Carolyn, 2. She "retired" from teaching art after 13 years!

Dale Saunders Nelson is the supervisor of arts and humanities for the Richmond City Public Schools. She reports that Lin Ferrell, (1969) works with her, after living for a year in Hawaii in 1982. Lana McCabe Riccio is living in Danbury, CT., and works for Ethan Allan at their photography studio.

Maureen Murphy McCart still lives in rural New Jersey with her husband, Dan, and children Margaret, 12, and Kevin, 8. She has her real estate license and owns two H & R Block franchises in western New Jersey. Dan is a division manager with American Bell. Maureen enjoys needlework in her "spare" time!

Nancy Moncure Jackson lives on the rocky coast of Maine, and works part time for Casco Bank in Portland as a systems analyst. Her husband, John, is an attorney, and they have two daughters—Halliday, 6½, and Travy, 2½. Nancy enjoys gardening and needlework. Dodo Fisher Roberts works part time as a project manager for Control Data. She, husband Rick, and daughter Cady, 2½, live in Wilton, CT., where Dodo "tries to play tennis, and grows rocks and poison ivy in her garden!" She is also active in the Wilton Historical Society.

Lorelei Haig has been "married almost 12 years to the last 'G' in the U.Va. Law Class of 1971." She practices domestic relations law in Arlington, and states that the "nature of work may account for the duration of the marriage!"

My "news sheet" somehow bypassed Judy Henley Beck—probably because she was busy running our class meeting! Judy and her husband, Gary, own and operate Beck Enterprises in Baltimore. They have two children, Melissa and Daniel, and Judy is active in the MWC Alumni Association.

Ash and I moved to Denver two years ago after living in Florida for 10 years. It's quite a change, and we love it! Ash is the managing general partner of Centennial Research and Development, a support group for the venture capital industry. I attempt to teach English to 7th and 8th graders at Laredo Middle School, and in my spare time enjoy all kinds of needlework. Todd, 12, and Anne, 8½, are both into gymnastics. We all started skiing last winter, and are thoroughly hooked!

Janice Bryant Lotterhos couldn't come to the reunion, but she, husband Lieb, and daughters Beth, 6, and Erika, 1½, did make it out here for a visit in July. Lieb's a major in the Air Force and they're currently stationed in Shreveport, LA.

Donna Harrison Lile had her second daughter, Joanna, in April.

I am really excited about being the new class agent for the class of 1968! I'll be making a real effort to catch up with every member of the class. If you haven't seen your name in print for awhile, drop me a note or a postcard. I'm looking forward to hearing from each of you (I love to get mail!) and will be happy to pass your news along to our classmates. Write soon—

Carl and Ellen Smythe Grosskurth had a boy, Alexander Carl, on July the fourth, 1983. He weighted 12 lbs. 2 oz. and is their second child. Veronica turned 4 on July 7th. The Grosskurths live in Ambler, Pa., where Carl is employed by the U.S. Navy as an antisubmarine warfare aircrewman. Carl coaches T-ball (softball for 6-8 yr. olds) in his spare time, and Ellen is a volunteer guide at a nature center.

I have several birth announcements this time: Worth and Sherrrie Mitchell Boone, a son, Worth Howard Boone III, on January 26, 1983, in Montvale. Shepard and Kathy Atkinson Miller, a daughter, Kelley Kathleen, on February 11, 1983, in Athens, Ga. Frank and Kathy Bradford Gillette Lehman, a daughter, Julia Page, on February 25, 1983, in Richmond. Kathy was visited this summer by Linda Cayton, who lives in Denver with her husband, John Holland, an attorney, and their two children, Anna and Adam.

Stephanie Sweeney Micas completed her doctorate in education at the University of Virginia. She and her husband, Steven, who is county attorney for Chesterfield, have two daughters, Rachel, 2½, and Claire, 1½. Stephanie reports that Debbie Gill enjoys working for an architectural firm in Madrid, Spain, where her husband has an antique business. They have two sons, William, 6, and Chris, 3.

Pat McQueen is a compliance officer with the Food & Drug Administration's Bureau of Veterinary Medicine in Washington, D.C. She has also worked in the FDA's Orlando, Fla. Office as a field investigator, specializing in seafood. Pat received her M.S. in administration from George Washington University last year. In her free time she enjoys canoeing and field trips with Washington Women Outdoors, an organization Pat recommends to area classmates.

My thanks to Pat for the following news on alumni with whom she has kept in touch: Pat Piermatti '70 is a research librarian at Rutgers University Medical School; she lives in Clifton, N.J. Liz Patterson Vawter, her husband, Donald, and their two daughters live in Powder Springs, Ga. Liz served two years with the Peace Corps in Malaysia after graduation. Donald is an engineering science professor at Georgia Tech. Katherine McLeod Davis is an elementary school teacher in New Orleans, La. She and her husband, Frank, an attorney for General Motors, have two children.

Susan Hansen Roberts has moved from Richmond to Kansas City, Kans., where her husband, Denny, is an attorney for United Telephone Systems. For the past three years Susan was a part-time financial systems officer with United Virginia Bank. The Roberts' have two daughters, Leila, 3, and Kate, 1½.

I was recently elected to the board of directors of the Richmond Metropolitan Area League of Women Voters. Keep your cards and letters coming, or I'll be forced to fabricate the next column.

Warmest regards to all '73 classmates. It is a great pleasure to be taking over as class agent, and I look forward to relaying news of our class as I receive it during the next few years.

Special appreciation is due Susan Jacobius Davis who has done such a fine job as class agent for the last five years. Susan has also ably served our MWC Alumni Association for the last two years as Vice-President for Homecoming, culminating in this year's Diamond Jubilee Homecoming. For our tenth reunion, Susan acted as coordinator and editor for the reunion booklet. With a very demanding and successful career as a Navy Lieutenant Commander working in Washington, D.C., Susan commutes from Richmond, VA. where she and her husband Bruce live. Our sincerest thanks go to Susan for contributing so much to our alumni and class organizations.

Our tenth reunion in May of this year provided a welcome opportunity to revisit MWC and to renew our contacts and friendships within the class of '73.

During our class meeting, several volunteers were accepted to fill positions for the next five years. They are: Bambi Creighton Willis, reunion coordinator; Becky Adamson Walker, reunion booklet; Virginia Davey Addison, fund agent; and Carter Moffett Welling, class agent. We will be busy accumulating information about classmates, and there will be ongoing plans for our next major reunion in 1988.

We are very fortunate to have several class alumni serving in important positions within the MWC Alumni Association at large, including Susan Jacobius Davis, vice-president for homecoming; Janet Hedrick, committee chairman for budget and finance; and Bambi Creighton Willis, Alumni Association president-elect. Bambi also recently served on the MWC Presidential Search Advisory Committee which took part in the selection of the College's sixth president, Dr. William M. Anderson, Jr.

A final note for those unable to attend our reunion; the tenth anniversary reunion booklet for the class of '73 is still available in very limited quantities from the Alumni Association. The booklet provides a wealth of information about many classmates, including the most recent addresses available. Just reading this booklet provides a real sense of pride in the accomplishments of our class during the past 10 years. For a copy, send $3.50 to the Alumni Association of Mary Washington College, Box 1315, College Station, Fredericksburg, VA. 22402.

A new questionnaire will be on the way to you in the near future, and please take a moment to complete and return it. News of careers, families, professional or volunteer involvements, and the like is eagerly sought for inclusion in this class column. If you doubt that the Alumni Association has your correct name or address, please drop them a line with the new information. And remember that the association will be glad to help you find that "lost" classmate you want to contact.

It's been a great 10 years for our class, and here's to continued health and happiness as we enter our second decade as MWC alumni.

Greetings, '76ers!! Here's the latest: Susan Akley is a captain in the Army. She has completed Airborne School and is currently attending a six-month Officers Advanced Course in Alabama. She traveled extensively in Europe while stationed here.

Rick and Tricia Barton Bouwmans are now living in Louisville, Ky. where Rick is the executive assistant to the president of Brown-Forman Distillers. They like Louisville better than Los Angeles.

Gail Bryant is a medical doctor specializing in pathology. She received her M.D. at UVa. in 1980 and is completing her residency at National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md. She served on the Admissions Committee at UVa. Medical School. Gail also reported being invited to MWC to speak to the Pre-Med Society and science majors. She attended the weddings of both Sandra Powell and Marsha Parker.

Sue Sendlein Luscomb and husband Rich are expecting their first child in November! They are still stationed in West Berlin.

Mark and Mary Carroll Myers were married in St. Pete in May. Sue Smith Hane and Sharon Reel Fuhrmeister were in the wedding party. Debbie Daniels Sagmiller also attended. Mary and Mark toured France and Switzerland on their honeymoon.

Dena Caulkins is a computer analyst for the federal government. She is working on her master's in dance at George Washington Univ. She has performed with the D.C. City Ballet Co. and the Fairfax Ballet Co. Dena wrote that Marti Taylor married Mark Clements. Kathy Haffey '77 was married this spring. Karen Pierce teaches at the Arlington Center for Dance. Karen Stevens and Lisa Howard are both performing in Washington, D.C. with a group directed by Kathy Harty Gray, former MWC faculty. Carroll Spain Rowe transferred to Point Park College and finished her degree in dance. She and husband Mark live in Richmond and Carroll is on the faculty of the School of Richmond Ballet. That's the news on some of the dancers from Dena!

Tia Jones Hagen wrote from her home in Fredericksburg. She is a secretary at the USDA in Latin America Programs. Husband Jeff is a car salesman. Tia spends her spare time learning folk crafts—quilting, crewel, rug braiding, and wreath making.

After Tracey Lee Logan completed her MBA at UVa. she worked as a foreman at Lynchburg Foundry to see first hand how a manufacturing business operates. She now works for Avon in Cincinnati supervising one of their plants.

Regina Tambellini Harbourne is taking a physical therapy class in Mexico this summer. Husband Brian is there, too, only he's vacationing!

My husband Henry and I ran into Penny Beard '77 at an antique show in Warrenton. Penny teaches music at Central Elementary there. My family, including sisters Martha Jones '73 and Molly Jones '74, went to Houston in July to celebrate our maternal grandparents' 60th wedding anniversary. It was a heart-warming occasion. Martha then flew to Chicago to visit her former roomie Norma Hawkins Wright. Norma and Bill have a son and are expecting their second child this fall.

Keep those cards and letters coming!!

Since the five year reunion last summer the class of 1977 has been quite busy. Janice Wenning changed employers and is now working at JRB Assoc. As an environmental scientist, she travels extensively for the company. In her spare time Janice is working towards a master's in environmental science and engineering. She has also been back to Mary Wash. to discuss career opportunities in science with the biology majors. Mary Doran is also seeking her master's degree. She is striving for a degree in education from Madison Univ.

This summer some of our classmates including myself have taken exotic vacations. In April I spent a relaxing week soaking up rays in Antigua. I was not the only one to visit the British West Indies. Janice went down to do some scuba diving off one of the islands. When I chatted with Betsy McNeil, she told me that she and Manon Moynihan Deadrick had just returned from a Caribbean cruise. Betsy said the trip was wonderful and she is ready to go again. I heard Laurie Fisher Calloway and her husband, Gary, spent their vacation in Cancun, Mexico. In Oct. Pamela Davis is combining work with a vacation in Hawaii. Pam, you should give Phyllis Quinn a call. A little bird told me that Phyllis is training for the Iron Man triathlon. We will be rooting for you! My old roommate, Robin Carpenter, traveled to New England for a visit with friends in Newport, R.I. On her way home she stopped by Canton for a quick hello and to introduce her finace. What a surprise! It was a good thing I was seated at the time.

It appears Robin is not the only one to tie the knot, as the saying goes. Pamela Roberts was married in April of this year. Out in Calif., Cil

Davis was married. Emily Cole married David Nestleroth last year. Maureen A. McIntyre married Gary Stefaniga. Word is out that Deborah Harris is busy planning a fall wedding. If any of the brides need advice about today's bride, they should contact Sue Gass Moore. Right now she is working in N.Y.C. for Belk stores as an assistant buyer for wedding gowns.

Along with the new brides, there are a few new babes amongst the MWC alumni. Debra Dawson Ardan and husband, Van, are the proud parents of a little girl. Alison Slade Jones and husband, Rob, are still glowing over the birth of their first son last Sept. While flying over Martinsville the stork stopped in at the Lewis household to bless Debra Jordan and Ben with a son. I hear the stork is waiting to visit Vicki Sprague and her husband in Alexandria. Theresa Tillapaugh Pugh had a daughter, Veronica Ann, in May. Also Anne Robinson Hallerman and Dennis had their first child in July.

As for some of the other members of our class, Donna Dowdy is a church organist and works for an insurance company during the week. Carolyn Alexander is coaching a girls softball team this summer. Last report Mary Byrd was working as a receptionist-secretary for an architectural firm and taking paralegal courses at George Washington Univ. Sarah Dewitt is in Reston, Va. employed with the U.S. Geological Survey. Nancy Thornton and Jeffrey Parsons are living in Spotsylvania county. Jeff is a state trooper and Nancy is a computer programmer for Sperry Co. in Dalgren.

Laura Ann Ewers Cline and husband, Bernie, are the proud parents of a second daughter, Sarah Abbey, born June 9, 1982. Laura Ann has been keeping busy at home with the two girls and is also very active in the Fredericksburg Chapter of the MWC Alumni Association.

Kathleen Diehl Hartman and husband, Steve, had their second child, Amanda Kathleen, on March 5, 1983.

Dana deGroot Grobicki and husband, Tom, have moved back east from Denver and are now residing in Columbia, Maryland. They are expecting their first child in late August.

Kathleen Baldwin Geary and husband, John, and children, have also moved back East. They are living in Alexandria and John is stationed with the Navy in the DC area.

That is about all the news I have accumulated for now. Information on this class has been sparse. If you have any newsy items to offer, please drop me a line.

From Barbara Goliash—News from the Class of 1979 comes from near and far. Cyn Anderson tells me that Maira Carr has received a graduate degree in urban planning and is now employed by the City of New Orleans' Planning Department.

When I was at UVA's graduation this past spring, I noticed a few MWC grads' names in the program. Robin Turner has graduated from medical school, Karen Sobieski Conroy from the law school, and Mary McWhirt Murphy received her M.A. in Education. Congrats to all! Lisa Jenkins is another one to hit the books again. She will be starting an M.B.A. program at the University of Indiana this fall.

On the domestic front—Gayle Weinberger Petrozino and her husband, Mark, are busy playing Harriet and Harry Homeowner since they bought a home in Lake Ridge, Virginia. Rickey Graham is also living comfortably in the house he built HIMSELF. It's in Manassas where Rickey has his own business.

Nena Lee was married to Forrest Kobayashi in December 1982. Forrest, a '77 grad of Brown University is an accountant in Washington, D.C. and the happy couple have bought a gorgeous home in Alexandria, not far from where Nena works as a senior systems analyst for Advanced Technology, Inc. Nena also tells me that Pat Hallett Tippet and her husband, Shane, have been transferred to Okinawa for a tour of duty.

I also have a little bit of news about alumni from other classes. My roommate from graduate school, Mary Ann Curtin, '77, has been working as a budget analyst for the Congressional Budget Office and lives in Alexandria. She received her M.A. in public administration from the University of Virginia in August 1982. Ford Hart, '80 was another MWC grad in the Department of Government and foreign affairs at UVA. He completed his master's in international relations and has been accepted into the Foreign Service. Patty Goliash, '80 began her third year as a dental student at M.C.V. and shares an apartment with Amy Hauck, also '80, who is working towards her Ph.D. in Chemistry. Linda Jones, '80 is another one of that Framar crowd who has become a professional student. She is doing graduate work in fuels science at Penn State.

Douglas R. Lorber is practicing audiology in Albany, Ga. He is married to Nancy Elkins of Richmond, and they are expecting a child in August.

Well, that's about all for now folks. Please drop me a line and let us know what you've been doing. And I hope to see as many '79'ers as possible at our five-year reunion next spring.

From Lynn—June Easton sent lots of good news to share with her classmates, beginning with her own! June became the bride of her "college sweetheart" Edgar Whiting of UVA on June 11, 1983. June has been with Dun & Bradstreet in New York since graduation, where she was quickly promoted to associate editor of the Reference Book of Corporate Managements. She also sent news of her former roommate, and bridesmaid, Pam Aylor Luthman. Pam and Nick have just celebrated their first anniversary and are now living in Ohio while Nick attends optometry school.

Sky Switzer sent greetings from Brooklyn where she admits to leading an artist's bohemian lifestyle. Sky has certainly taken advantage of living in the "Big Apple" by working with a variety of museums and on a couple of projects. She's still at Pratt where this past summer she worked on a Mellon Grant.

Bio major Elisa Devorshak has been at the University of Connecticut since graduation where she just completed her master's degree in zoology. And as if she had not had enough of school, she began the doctorate program in physiology with a specialization in reproductive endocrinology this fall and is teaching general biology and physiology. She has enjoyed a student's vacation by traveling to Denmark and West Germany to visit friends and family.

Robert and Karen Harmon Sefton are living in Springfield where she is a computer specialist for the Department of the Army and was expecting the birth of their first child this September. Karen also sent word that Beth Lennon was to be married to her high school sweetheart. She remained in the Fredericksburg area where she is employed as a kindergarten teacher.

Karen Jacobs became the bride of Robert Stortstrom in a lovely wedding on January 22, 1983. Among her attendants were former roommates Debbie Schenkel and Regina Amos. Tammy Reid Cochran and husband Dennis of Fredericksburg and Lynn Shepard also attended. Karen is still with the Wyatt Company and happily living in Maryland.

Another former MWCer, Mary Kennedy, was married to John McLaughlin during Washington's "Blizzard of 1983," February 12. Her old roommate and suitemate, Helen Larkins and Lynn Shepard, were packed and ready to go to the wedding when road conditions changed that. Helen completed her master's degree in chemistry at Princeton and is on her way to her doctorate.

Catherine E. Lennon married Robert D. Stephan in June. Catherine teaches in Spotsylvania County.

I completed my Master of Public Administration degree at Syracuse University in December and passed up among other job offers a job in Fort Lauderdale to stay in snowy Syracuse, New York—some say I've lost my mind. As a Budget Analyst II with the City of Syracuse, I spend my spare time worrying about roads, water and sewers—and I love it! Since deciding to remain, I have become quite active in the area and was elected vice president of the Central New York chapter of the American Society of Public Administrators. Hope to hear from lots of my classmates soon—let your friends know how you are doing.

From Marty: Whew! Another half year gone by! And lots more exciting news on the class of 1982.

First, and very importantly—two omissions from the last issue, along with my apologies—Karen Stuckner wrote with news that she is currently a salesperson for the designer department of Woodward and Lothrop. In addition, she was crowned Miss Culpeper County on October 16, 1982. She was to compete for Miss Virginia (the prelims for Miss America) in July.

Steve Metzger is presently a senior computer marketing rep, living in Falls Church. Sounds impressive, doesn't it?

The Pierpoint brothers, Jim and Tim, have decided their B.A.'s weren't enough and are going on to grad school—Jim to the University of Georgia for communications and Tim to UVa for business. Let's hear it for these two human dynamos—those schools will never be the same! Their old bud, Mike Bennett, continues to plug away at Syracuse, cheerfully. He is there this summer and hopes to finish in December, 1983. John Hoffman has taken the summer off from GW and is saving lives at the Wakefield High School pool in Arlington. He'll be back in September to pick up where he left off. Shannon McGurk left in June for a three-year tour in Germany. We are sure going to miss him—and hope he'll be back for a visit. Dan Hudson continues to work in computer programming with intermittent classes at the University of Maryland. So much for the men in our class.

A few more members of the Class of 1982 have gotten married since I last wrote. Trenda Powell Jacocks was wed on April Fool's Day. She was a radiant bride—and it was a beautiful wedding. Christy Roach, one of her bridesmaids, moved to Myrtle Beach for the summer and found a job on the boardwalk. Rough life, Christy! But she'll be returning to Northern Virginia to assume another job in mapping, sometime in the late summer, early fall. Andi Jansen, who was also at the wedding, is now working at Aberdeen Proving Grounds where she has been employed since June, 1982. Diana Elizabeth Norton and Michael Jay Elewell '83 were married in June in Mannassas. Kim DeShazo has been playing Eleanor Dare in the famous outdoor drama "The Lost Colony" on the Outer Banks of North Carolina at Manteo. Ronda Nash, who is doing missionary work in Tanzania, sent a lengthy newsletter to the Alumni Office. She seems to be doing very well and asks to hear from you.

Betsy Rohaly is also returning to the Northern Virginia area, after spending some time in the Big Apple working for a travel agency. She'll probably be working in some area of the Defense Department. Paula Garten began a new job in July working for Executive Enterprises on DuPont Circle—right near me and seems to be enjoying it. Erin Devine is home doing summer in Rockville Centre, New York, saving up for second year law in August.

Back on the wedding track—Missy Betak wed Gary Webb (another MWC alum) this past June and from all reports she too was a beautiful bride. Sue Watkins married Clyde Hardacre in Southwest Virginia a couple of weeks later.

Despite some heavy rain, they had a glorious day. Cindy Field and Robert Blythe married July 16. Although I missed the happy day, I saw Cindy some weeks before. Cindy had quite a year—completing all requirements for a master's except her thesis. That's perseverance for ya! She and Rob now live in Texas. Anne Sketchley (one of Cindy's bridesmaids) is happy, (still fun) and living in and loving Fredericksburg. Torie Hampshire is engaged and will be married in October. She is working at the National Institutes of Health. Beth Hayden is married and living in California. John Hoffman and Terri Torri have also set a date for their wedding sometime in September 1984!

Anne Marie Foster looks good, and is working at Woodward and Lothrop at Tyson's Corner. Kathy Haar is doing well, working hard at her job at the Pentagon. Erma Ames continues to live in Richmond. She and Carol Peppiatt will be in Susan Stahl's wedding.

Jackie Tanous is busy being a creative advertising-type person working in McLean and just whipping off those slogans. Beth Doyle (her housemate) just received a promotion at Close Up—much to her delight. M. C. Morris is involved in the grass roots political process at the National Right to Work, and is quite the businesswoman.

Cicely Woodrow (after a stint at Georgia Paralegal) now works for Steptoe and Johnson, a law firm in Washington. I ran into Monica Peterschmidt who works in the Dupont Circle area as does Butch Stull (also for a law firm). It is always a great surprise running into people. Speaking of which, I saw Libba Kepley, who is now at home after a time in Durham, NC learning the points of nutritional cooking.

Rosann Sedlacko is on the job hunt hoping to pull some of her Hill experience into employment. Theresa De Atley is getting a real challenge at Rappahannock Legal Services. Gay Groves and Laurie Scherer are both at Fort Meade working for the Defense Department. Laurie wed John Dulle on July 2—congratulations! Barb Dixon is now working at the Defense Intelligence Agency in Northern Virginia at which she is sure to be a success. Jenifer Blair accepted a great position as an assistant dean of admissions at MWC! Barb Cahill is back in New York working for the summer with hopes of law school in the fall. Mandy Murphy is in the Peace Corps after a year in Fredericksburg—quite a change there! I've caught Nancy Kaiser at a few MWC functions. She is doing well and working in Northern Virginia. Also saw Becky Batten in Fredericksburg, and she too seems to be doing fine—Annmarie Cozzi was accepted at American University Law School, but as of this writing, I don't know whether she will matriculate there or not. Abi Purlee and I talked a few months ago and Abi seems delighted with her dance class that she is teaching. Her students range in age from 4 to 60!

Kathleen Downes, Terri Torri, and Marty de Silva moved into a townhouse in Springfield last April—finally. Kathleen and Terri are still enjoying their jobs a great deal and are finding challenges in both their work and in living with me! I, too, still enjoy my job and am taking classes in between—my most recent an art history course at Georgetown. All correspondence can now be directed to the above address—I plan to be there awhile. Please do write me and let me know how you are doing. I will be in touch with you as well to solicit your news!

Susan Jones and Kiki Connerton were both busy planning weddings. Susan was to marry William Hollister on August 20, and Kiki was to wed Dixon Smith on October 8, 1983.

Several members of the class are continuing their education. Beth Brown is working on her master's degree in Public Administration at Syracuse University. Sara Lake will begin law school at the University of Virginia and Laura Abenes is studying at Oxford this summer in the International Graduate School program. Peter Neal is working in Rabat, Morocco with the Peace Corps. He is teaching English to school children. Elizabeth Sullivan is living in Cleveland, Ohio, and is working as a supervisor in charge of quantitative research at National Market Measures, Inc.

Vicki Rudacille is a junior high general science teacher in Warren County. Bethanne Daughtrey Griffin is a reporter with the Culpeper Star-Exponent.

Other weddings this summer include Deborah Jean Lambrose to Kenneth Wayne Saunders, Anna Lynn Torralbas to Thomas Francis Cocke, Carol Ann Gillespie to Kenneth Lloyd Guerin, Wendy Llew Suann to Ronald Alan Alexander, and Cynthia Ann Pelter to Jeffrey Lynn Rumisel.

Last but not least, Monica Rastallis was crowned Miss New Hampshire 1983 on May 20. Monica represented New Hampshire in September in Atlantic City in the Miss America Contest.
